

which was begged from me, and as others naturally apply for copies I wish you would have your secretary send me a dozen, that I may distribute them.

All well here and send love.

Your affectionate brother,
W. T. SHERMAN.

INDEX

A

- Absenteeism, 159, 177, 226.
Alden, Admiral, invites Gen. Sherman to go to the Mediterranean, 333.
Alger, Gen., 381.
Allen, 30.
Amendments to the Constitution, see Constitution.
Anderson, Gen. Robert, Gen. Sherman goes to meet, 126, 127; orders Gen. Sherman to Muldraugh's Hill, 131; resigns, 132.
Andes, W. T. Sherman's description of, 36.
Arapahoes, the, 322.
Arkansas Post, captured, 181, 183.
Army, difficulties of managing the, 182; suffering from the apathy of the nation, 184; in the West, condition of, 226; bills, the, 264; cannot be used in political complications, 281; too expensive, 346, 347; drifting back, 377, 378.
Arsenal at Baton Rouge, see Baton Rouge arsenal.
Arthur, Chester A., 360.
Atlanta, capture of, 239; important to the South, 242.
Augusta arsenal, Ga., W. T. Sherman at, 28.
- B
- Bancroft, George, 343.
Bank Law, 195, 196.
Bankrupt Law, 178.
- Banks, Gen., 116, 155; at Vicksburg, 173, 174; John Sherman's opinion of, 178, 181; no news from, 183, 191; likely to be caged up at New Orleans, 203, 236.
Baton Rouge arsenal taken possession of, 104; Gen. Sherman's comments on, 104-106, 107.
Beauregard, Gen., at Bull Run, 126; fear lest he take Washington, 126, 128; 144; 146; 149; 154; the army of, not expected to hold together, 155; at Columbia, S.C., 268, 269.
Beck, Hon. James B., misrepresents Gen. Sherman and Gen. Sheridan in Congress, 353-355.
Belknap, Gen., resigns secretaryship of war, 339; Gen. Sherman's differences with, 346, 348; his downfall, 348.
Benton Barracks, Mo., Gen. Sherman at, 136.
Biographies, Gen. Sherman opposed to printing of, 270.
Blaine, James G., 340; as a Presidential nominee, 359-361, 368.
Blair, Gen., 173, 176, 182.
Border States, attitude of, 115.
Boston, Gen. Sherman refuses to march in procession in, 381.
Bounties, Gen. Sherman opposed to all, 219.
Boyd, Superintendent D. F., his letter to Gen. Sherman, 271-274; visited by Gen. Sherman, 327.
Bradley, Justice, 378.
Bragg, Gen., 217.

Brown, John, 165.
 Buchanan, President, driven into his Kansas policy, 86.
 Buell, Gen., relieves Gen. Sherman in Kentucky, 133, 135, 141, 154, 157, 162, 163; over cautious, 166; displaced, 182.
 Bull Run, battle of, 126.
 Burnside, Gen., 127, 182; relieved by Hooker, 187; besieged at Knoxville, 215, 217, 374, 375; an equestrian statue of, 374.

C

Cadets, Gen. Sherman urges introducing bill to increase number of, 218; John Sherman's comments on increasing the number of, 222, 223.
 Calhoun, Mr., confidence of Charlestonians in, 30.
 California, W. T. Sherman sails for, 31-36; situation in, 39, 40; gold excitement in, 40 et seq.; desertion of soldiers in, 47; W. T. Sherman's words concerning establishment of route to, 56, 57; the value of, 57, 370-372.
 Calkins, Mr., 358.
 Cameron, Secretary, 114, 116, 117.
 Campbell, Hon. Lewis D., 280, 281; appointed minister to Juarez, in Mexico, 282; responsible for removal of Union men from office, 284; can deal with none but Juarez, 285.
 Canada, annexation of, proposed, 377.
 Canals, the, made in Vicksburg campaign, 184, 190, 202.
 Cass, Mr., 30, 262.
 Charleston, no trouble in taking, 30.
 Chase, Mr., 110, 165, 233; made Chief Justice, 241, 247, 248; in favor of negro suffrage, 250; his candidacy 342.

Chattanooga, battle of, 215.
 Cheyenne Indians, the, 287, 320, 322.
 Childs, Major, 20.
 Civil Rights Bill, the, 270, 276, 278.
 Civil War, the, Gen. Sherman's predictions concerning, 29, 30, 84, 88, 89, 108, 109; inevitable, 106, 107; impending, 110; begun, 112; John Sherman's predictions concerning, 112, 113; the need of, 113; Gen. Sherman's words concerning conduct of, 113, 114, 227; plan of action at opening of, 116; first fighting in the West, 118, 120; gravity of, 112, 160, 162, 165, 166, 169, 180, 185; bad condition of, 163, 164; the two Shermans differ as to origin of, 166; problem of, to conquer so as to compel respect of the South, 120; impossible to make popularity out of, 185; John Sherman on the progress of, 203, 205; the people growing rich in the, 216; due to political heresies, 231; Gen. Sherman's report on the conduct of, 257; increased financial activity at close of, 258.
 Clay, Henry, 26, 379.
 Cleveland, President, 375, 379.
 Cochran, Gen., 159.
 Colfax, Schuyler, Gen. Sherman's letter to, concerning soldiers voting, 238.
 Colt's patent rifles, 12, 13.
 Columbia, S.C., burning of, 265, 269, 376; Gen. Sherman's field order at, 268, 269.
 Commons, House of, 74.
 Compromise, John Sherman's words concerning, 96, 97, 98, 99.
 Confederacy, cannot exist without an outlet to the South and West, 178.

Congress, admission of Southern members to, 260; its mistake in reference to the Pacific Railroad, 270, 271; President Johnson's struggle with, 275 et seq.
 Conscript Bill, the, 193, 195, 196; consolidation clause in, 199, 200, 204.
 Consolidation Law, 199, 200, 204.
 Constellation in Southern sky, 33.
 Constitution, John Sherman opposed to amendment to, 96, 99; amendment to, 280, 281, 284, 286, 299, 368.
 Cooke, Henry, sustains Gen. Sherman, 250.
 Copperheads, the, 237; Jefferson Davis despises, 238, 271; put into office, 284.
 Corinth, Gen. Sherman in camp at, 145 et seq.; evacuated and burned by rebels, 151; occupied by Northern army, 151; Gen. Sherman's division order issued at, 151, 154.
 Corwin, Mr., his speech, 371, 372.
 Cox, Mr., his letter on Negro Suffrage, 252, 335.
 Cullen, Gen., 222.
 Cullum, Gen., 186.
 Currency, inflated, 223.
 Curtin, Gov., 93.
 Curtis, Gen., 175.
 Custer, Gen. G. W., Gen. Sherman's praise of, 289.

D

Dana, Mr., visits Gen. Sherman, 198.
 Davis, Jefferson, despises the Copperheads, 238; urges recapture of Atlanta, 242, 243; Gen. Sherman's controversy with, 362-366; says he never meant war, 376.
 Democratic party, the, 85-88; doomed, 259.

Dennison, Gov., Gen. Sherman's relations with, 129.
 "Depew revelations," the, 368.
 Dickey, Col., 144.
 Donelson, Fort, taken, 139.
 Douglas, W. T. Sherman's words concerning, 84, 86.
 Draft, enforcing the, 215, 216.
 Drum, Adjutant-General, 375.

E

Elections, the, of 1862, 167, 169; Presidential, of 1864, 207, 208; in Ohio, 322, 367.
 Engineering, W. T. Sherman's views concerning, 10.
 England, W. T. Sherman's feelings towards, 7, 8; John Sherman's impressions of, 73, 74.
 English, W. T. Sherman's words concerning the, 29; rights of the, 73.
 Enlistment, a mistake to stop, 148; more rapid, 156.
 Escobedo, Gen., 285.
 Europe, convinced that Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman accomplished the military problem, 256; Gen. Sherman's trip to, 333-338.
 Ewing, Ellen Boyle, her marriage to W. T. Sherman, 48.
 Ewing, Hon. Thomas, 4, 48, 49, 312.
 Ewing, Philemon, 4.
 Executive, duty of the, 211, 212.

F

Farming, W. T. Sherman's partiality for, 12.
 Fillmore, President, 48, 49.
 Financial situation, the, 150, 204, 216, 223, 225, 233, 234; at close of the war, 258.
 Flags, returning rebel, 375.
 Florida, description of, 13, 14; wars in, 14 et seq.; ship goes ashore on coast of, 20.

Foote, Gen., 139.
 Foraker, Mr., 379.
 Ford, Gen., 166.
 Fort Wayne, mob at, 203.
 France, government of, 74; freedom and equality in, 74, 75.
 Freedmen Bureau Bill, 264.
 Fremont, Gen., 116, 157.
 French, the, failure of in Mexico, 285.
 Frost, Gen., surrender of, 119, 120.
 Furloughs, losses through, 159.

G

Garfield, President, the assassination of, 350-353.
 Georgia, difficulties of fighting in, 236.
 Georgia, W. T. Sherman's journey through in 1843, 24, 25.
 Gettysburg, 207; dedication of the battle-field, 215.
 Gold discovery and excitement, and its effect on labor, trade, and prices, 40 et seq.; process of washing for, 45.
 Goldsboro, Gen. Sherman's march to, 246.
 Goodwin, Mayor of Columbia, S.C., 269.
 Grand Gulf, the movement against, 201, 203, 205.
 Granger, Gen., 217.
 Grant, Gen., takes Fort Henry, 139, 141, 142, 144; much feeling against, 147, 149; succeeds to Halleck's command, 159; Gen. Sherman joins forces with, 168, 170, 171; at Vicksburg, 172 et seq.; at Lake Providence, 191, 194, 198; starts down to Carthage, 200, 201; opens a canal from the Mississippi to Willow Bayou, 202; his movements not approved by Gen. Sherman, 204, 209; and wife visit Gen. Sherman in camp, 213, 217; Gen. Sherman's friendship with, 220; ordered to command the Armies of the United States, 220; Gen. Sherman goes to Cincinnati with, 223; Gen. Sherman's opinion of, 224, 225; John Sherman's opinion of, 224; much lionized, 224; as a leader, 225, 234, 235; the fate of the country dependent on him and Sherman, 236, 237; not had the success of Sherman, 237; supersedes Gen. Sherman in command, 246; John Sherman's praise of, 249, 250; visits Gen. Sherman at St. Louis, 255; his report on the war, 260; his political aspirations, 269; refuses appointments of President Johnson, 275, 280, 282; above politics, 279; said he would not accept nomination for Presidency, 292; comments of the Shermans on, as a Presidential candidate, 292-295, 297; inevitably a candidate, 299, 312; will not interfere in President Johnson's difficulties, 300; his letter to John Sherman concerning the publication of Gen. Sherman's private note to President Johnson, 308, 309; anxious to have Gen. Sherman's letter to President Johnson published, 311; his silence as to his political intentions, 314, 316; accepts nomination, 319; the Shermans' confidence of election of, 319-321, 323; his election the only salvation, 321; elected, 323; his esteem for John Sherman, 323; Gen. Sherman's address of welcome to, at Chicago, 325; likely to be renominated, 331, 332; the South against, 331; a second-term candidate, 337-339, 340; his difficulty with President Johnson, 369, 376.

 Greeley, Horace, Democratic Presidential candidate, 337-339.

Gresham, Walter Q., 358.
 Guiteau, Charles J., 352, 353.

H

Haines' Bluff, 204.
 Halleck, Gen., 133, 135; his difficulties, 138, 141, 142, 154; succeeds McClellan, 159; his freedom of action, 164, 172, 179, 180; refuses to allow publication of Gen. Sherman's Vicksburg report, 186; his complete authority in army matters, 204, 205; will ruin Grant with the President, 225; disapproves of Gen. Sherman's terms with Gen. Johnston, 246, 247, 249, 250, 324; his insults to Gen. Sherman, 345.
 Hampton, Wade, 265, 267, 270.
 Hancock, Gen., the funeral of, 370.
 Hanlover, the expedition to the, 16-18.
 Hannigan, Mr., 30.
 Hardie, Gen., 222.
 Harney, Colonel, 18.
 Harrison, Benjamin, 358; and the offices, 379.
 Hayes, R. B., the Shermans endorse for President, 347; retires Gen. Ord, 355, 360.
 Helper's book, "The Impending Crisis," 78, 79.
 Henderson, Mr., on the Indian troubles, 296; feeling against, 319, 360, 362.
 "Herald," N.Y., urges Gen. Sherman for President, 330; on saving money in War Department, 347.
 Hood, Gen., attacks Gen. Sherman, 240; his army defeated, 242, 243.
 Hooker, Gen., relieves Gen. Burnside, 187; his defeat, 204; dropped by all, 207.

Howard, Gen., at Columbia, 266, 268.
 Hudson, Port, 191, 203; capitulation of, 208, 210.

I

Indians, wars with, in Florida, 14 et seq.; wars with in the West, 287, 288, 290, 291, 293, 321; the Sioux, 287, 320; the Cheyennes, 287, 320, 322; the Navajos, 318, 329; Commission to visit the, 317 et seq.; the Arapahoes, 322; a discussion of the troubles concerning the, 344.
 Industries, activity of, in spite of Civil War, 216.
 Italy, Gen. Sherman's comments on war in, 70-72; Gen. Sherman's impressions of, 336.
 Jackson, Camp, 118.
 Jay, Mr., sustains Gen. Sherman, 250.
 Jesup, Gen., 15.
 Johnson, Andrew, suspected of enmity against Gen. Sherman, 250; drifting towards Gen. Sherman's terms with Gen. Johnston, 257; his responsibility, 259, 263; Gen. Sherman agrees with, 263, 265; likely to break with his party, 265; suspicious of every one, 269; fear that he will lend himself to the Copperheads, 271; his struggle with Congress, 275 et seq.; his appointments, 275, 280-282; John Sherman's opinion of the attitude of, 276, 278, 279; Gen. Sherman's letter of good wishes to, 279, 280; ought to agree to the amendment, 284; the impeachment of, 281, 289; change of feeling in South for, 289; should enforce the laws as they stand, 290; Gen. Sherman's advice to, 297, 298; the great error of, 299; his disagreement with Sec. Stanton, 275, 300; Gen. Sherman's correspondence with, in reference to coming to Washington, 300 et seq.; endeavors to make Gen. Sherman Brevet-General, 300, 303-307; publishes Gen. Sherman's private note to him, 311; acting badly, 311; the trouble of, with Sec. Stanton, 312; his trial and impeachment, 313-316; Gen. Grant's difficulty with, 369.

Johnston, Gen., mistakes of, 149; Gen. Sherman following in Georgia, 234-236; terms of surrender of, 246-251, 257, 260; Gen. Sherman sends report on conduct of the war to, 330.

Jones, Sam, 15, 18.

Juarez, 282, 284-286.

K

Kansas, John Sherman appointed on committee to go to, 56; troubles in, compared with those of San Francisco, 61, 62; supposed gold region of, 64; admission of, as a free or slave State, 67, 68; Buchanan's policy in, 86; a free State, 96.

Kearney, Gen., 34.

Kentucky, endeavor to save, for the Union, 127 et seq.; the feeling and condition of affairs in, 130-132, 134, 135; operations in, 137.

Kidnapping, 100.

Kilpatrick, Gen., 268.

Knox, a newspaper correspondent, Gen. Sherman arrests as a spy, 188, 190; his trade to collect news, 197.

Knoxville, siege of, 215, 217, 374, 375.

Ku Klux, the, 330.

L

Lamar, Justice, 378.

Law, W. T. Sherman's opinion of, as a profession, 11, 12; the, should be supreme, 211, 212.

Lee, Gen., 207; John Sherman's words concerning surrender of, 246.

Lincoln, Abraham, W. T. Sherman's words concerning, his chances of election, 84; his election and its effect, 85, 87; South fear he will deprive them of constitutional rights, 95; what his party expect him to accomplish, 96; Gen. Sherman's interview with, 108, 109; did not think he wanted military men, 113; his failure to link the Border States, 115; resolves to send assistance to Kentucky and Tennessee, 127; Gen. Sherman's faith in, 148, 150; Republican Party abandoned by, 167; places Gen. McClelland over Gen. Sherman, 181, 193, 196, 199, 200; the last of old-school Presidents, 213; his proclamation, 218, 219; his election necessary to prevent disunion, 239; his second election, 241; his assassination, 248, 251, 376.

Logan, Gen., 266, 267, 289; as a nominee for office, 358, 360, 361.

Longstreet, Gen., 223.

Losses through furloughs, 159.

Louisiana, W. T. Sherman in, 76 et seq.; its secession, 89-91; reconstruction difficulties in, 342.

Lucas, Turner & Co., W. T. Sherman joins banking firm of, 50, 51; their affairs wound up, 63.

M

Maine difficulties, 7.

Manassas, 125.

March to the sea, Gen. Sherman's opinion of the, 260.

Mason, Gen., 166.

Mason, Gov., 40, 42, 44.

Maximilian, Emperor, 282-286.

McClelland, appointed to command Ohio militia, 115, 116; praised by Gen. Sherman, 121; confident Beauregard will attack, 126; would not spare Gen. Sherman, 127; different opinions of the Sherman brothers regarding, 140, 142; feeling towards, 156, 157, 159; slow, 166, 182, 199; a party leader, 207; nomination of, 239.

McClelland, Gen., 144, 149, 169; at Vicksburg, 179; supersedes Gen. Sherman, 181, 191, 202.

McDowell, Gen., 355.

McPherson, Gen., a splendid officer, 198, 202, 209.

Meade, Gen., at Gettysburg, 207; not a favorite, 324.

Meigs, Gen., reports Gen. Sherman as repulsed, 217.

Memphis, necessity of taking, 128; Gen. Sherman ordered to, 159; Gen. Sherman's movements at, 159 et seq.; and Charleston R.R. rebuilt, 215; dinner to Gen. Sherman at, 221.

Mexican War, progress of, 38; majority of people opposed to, 38; treaty of peace at end of, 46, 47; correspondence, 371; injustice of, 372.

Mexicans, the, unable to appreciate value of time, 285.

Mexico, Gen. Sherman's mission to, 282-287; failure of French in, 285; the country and inhabitants of, 285, 286.

Mexico, United States payment to, 372; annexation of, proposed, 377.

Military situation, bad, 163.

Miller, Justice, 378.

Missionary Ridge, 217.

Mississippi, the great problem of the Civil War, 122; the grand field of operation, 128; the, needed in its whole length, 155; military division of, 254.

Missouri, affairs in, 136.

Mitchell, Gen., 157.

Mobs, danger of, 203, 204.

Monterey, W. T. Sherman at, 39 et seq.

Moore, Gov., 91; takes possession of Baton Rouge arsenal, 104; Gen. Sherman's letter of resignation to, 105, 106; his response to Gen. Sherman, 107.

Morgan, Gen., 173, 179.

Mormons, threatened war with, 287; a move in Congress about, 288.

Moultrie, Fort, W. T. Sherman at, 22 et seq.; life at, 22, 23; compared with Fort Sumter, 91.

Muldraugh's Hill, Gen. Sherman at, 131.

Muskingum, works on the, 7.

Mutiny in regiments of Gen. Sherman, 126.

N

Napoleon, Louis, his message to Gen. Sherman, 290, 292.

Nashville, the victory of, 243, 244.

"National Intelligencer," the, publishes Gen. Sherman's private note to President Johnson, 308, 309; John Sherman's letter to, 309, 310; article in, 369.

Navajos, condition of, 318, 319.

Negro, no disaffection on part of, 29; kidnapping of the free, 100; employment of the, 156, 157, 195; a difficult problem to make him free, 160, 161; Gen. Sherman's views on suffrage of, 248, 252-254, 262, 298, 368; John Sherman's views on suffrage of, 251, 294; Cox's letter on suffrage of, 252; Chase in favor of suffrage for, 250; will occupy a subordinate place, 263; his right to hold property, 270.

 New Mexico, John Sherman urges its admission as a State, 97.
 New Orleans, W. T. Sherman at, 50; prosperity of, 50.
 Newspapers, Gen. Sherman's indignation at false reports of, 143; can turn armies against their leaders, 143; down on Gen. Sherman, 186; Gen. Sherman's censure of correspondents to, 187-194; influence of, 189, 191-194; falsehoods of, 190, 197; damage done by, at various points of the war, 191, 192, 198; their change of feeling towards Gen. Sherman, 196, 207, 210.
 New York, the riots of, 210; the panic in, 329.
 North, the, must arm itself, 161, 162; the greatest danger in the, 162, 163; slowness of, to realize the truth, 166; its attitude, and that of the South, 229-232.
 "No work, no pay," a good law, 170.

O

Officers, bad feeling among, 164.
 Ohio, indifference in, 128; enlistments in, 129; John Sherman's speech on Ohio volunteers, 147, 155; the natives of, prominent in Vicksburg campaign, 209; the canvass in, 210, 214, 255; Gen. Sherman's popularity in, 237; elections of 1868 in, 322; elections of 1885, 367.
 Order issued by Gen. Sherman at Corinth, 151-154.
 Ord, Gen., 214; retired by President Hayes, 355, 356.

P

Pacific Railroad, 56, 58, 65, 67, 258, 270, 271, 288.
 Pacific slope, 56.
 Paper money, 168.
 "Paper soldiers" not required, 121.
 Paris, John Sherman's impressions of, 72; the people compared with the English, 72.
 Parliament, 74.
 Patterson, Gen., 116, 117; his army on Maryland side of Potomac, 124.
 Pemberton, Gen., 174, 176.
 People, the, right and wrong, 161, 166; no longer underrate the power of the Confederates, 195, 196; the opinion of changeable, 207; ready to push the war, 216.
 Pierce, Fort, W. T. Sherman at, 13 et seq.
 Pierce, President, 60, 379.
 Pigeon, Cape, 35, 36.
 Pike's Peak, the rush for, 69.
 Politicians made responsible by Gen. Sherman for civil imbroglio, 108, 231; rebellion attributed to, by John Sherman, 140; interference of, with the generals, 182.
 Politics in 1847, 38; Gen. Sherman advises his brother to shun, 49; John Sherman hopes to leave, 259; Gen. Sherman determined to keep clear of, 245, 246, 248, 277; Gen. Grant and Gen. Sherman above ephemera of, 279.
 Polk, President, 379.
 Pope, Gen., 154, 344.
 Porter, Admiral, at Vicksburg, 175, 194; at Cairo, 217.
 Porter, Gen. Fitz-John, relieves Gen. Sherman, 126, 187.
 Portraits, Gen. Sherman opposed to printing of, 220.

Potomac, army of, condition of affairs in, 187.
 Prentiss, Gen., 144; made prisoner, 146; orders back forces towards St. Louis, 165.
 President, no man of supreme ability can be, 380, 381.
 Press, the, see newspapers.

R

Reconstruction, ideas and discussions, 214, 248, 256, 261-264, 275 et seq.; John Sherman's comments on, 289, 290; troubles in Louisiana, 342.
 Red River failure, the, 235, 236.
 Regulars versus raw recruits, 111, 112; the only force for invasion, 121; versus militia, 121.
 Reports, Gen. Sherman's opinion on publishing, 148.
 Republican party, no signs of division in ranks of, 67; compared with the Democratic party, 85, 88; its policy toward the South, 85, 88; causes of defeat of in 1862, 167, 168; John Sherman thoroughly attached to, 252; and the South, 263; friendly to Gen. Sherman, 333.
 Resumption question, the, 325, 326.
 Rosecrans, Gen., 182.

S

Salt, John Sherman's speculations in, 5, 6, 7.
 Sandwich Islands, a dinner to the King of the, 341.
 San Francisco, W. T. Sherman's description of, 52, 53; disturbances in, 58-62.
 Savannah, the capture of, 241-244.
 Sawyer, Major, Gen. Sherman's letter to, 228-233.
 Schenck, Gen., 116.
 Schofield, Gen., 312.

Scott, Gen., his victory at Cerro Gordo, 38, 92; plan of war formed by, 116; Gen. Sherman attached to staff of, 124; Washington fatal to, 301.
 Senate, the, W. T. Sherman's opinion concerning, 53.
 Seward, W. H., W. T. Sherman favors nomination of, 83.
 Sheridan, Gen., 324, 325, 342, 344; misrepresented in Congress, 353; takes command of the army, 355-357, 376, 377.
 Sherman, John, a rodman, 2; his speculations in salt, 5, 6; his stump-speaking, 26; sketch of his career, 37, 38; his opinion concerning state of politics, 38; words to his brother on the latter's going into banking business, 52; elected to Congress, 53; is placed on Committee of Foreign Relations, 55; appointed on committee to go to Kansas, 57; his words on Vigilance Committee, 60, 61; re-elected, 68; goes abroad, 68; his impressions of England and France, 73, 74; candidate for Speaker of the House, 77; signs for the "Helper Book," 78; his portrait in Harper's, 81; his speech in New York, 81, 82; comments on Lincoln's election, and its results, 85, 88; urges his brother to leave Louisiana, 90-92; his views on the situation and the relations of the North and South, 93-104; opposed to amendment to Constitution or compromise, 96-99; his plea for Union, 102, 103; approves his brother's declination of offer of chief clerkship in War Department, 109, 110; his belief in his brother's talents as a soldier, 109, 110; his prediction concerning the Government, 110, 111; his views on the civil war, 112, 113; his words of encouragement to his brother, 140; his speech on Ohio volunteers, 147-155; talks with the President about state of the war, 150; his statement of condition of public affairs, 150, 151; anticipates war in cotton States between blacks and whites, 151; studying politics, 158; wants war conducted according to principles of civilized warfare, 165; contradicts report that his brother had spoken ill of him, 164; views on elections of 1862, 167, 168; his opinion of his brother as an officer, 178; does not favor the "Bankrupt Law," 178; his opinion of Gen. Banks, 178; justifies his brother's actions at Vicksburg, 186; his efforts to secure the publication of Gen. Sherman's Vicksburg report, 186; urges his brother to be moderate with newspaper men, 193; his laborious duties in the Senate, 194, 195; his words concerning the Bank and Conscriptio Laws, 195, 196; urges his brother not to resign, 193, 250; his industry and good name in the Senate, 196; his concern at the turn of political affairs, 201; his words on the progress of the civil war, 203-205; his comments on Gen. Hooker's defeat, 204; unable to alter consolidation law, 204; not standing well with his political associates, 208; to take part in dedication of Gettysburg, 215; his opinion of Grant, 224; made chairman of Finance, 241; his words concerning surrender of Gen. Lee, 246; speaks at Columbus, 248; his praise of Grant's conduct, 249, 250; his condemnation of Stanton, 249, 250; his observations on his brother's terms of surrender with Gen. Johnston, 248-251; his views on negro suffrage, 251; his policy to be moderate and conciliatory, 252; firmly attached to the Republican party, 252; hopes to leave politics, 259; election of, 261; classed as one of the rising statesmen, 262; his comments on the Civil Rights Bill, 270, 276, 278; on the Pacific Railroad Committee, 271; his comments on Superintendent Boyd's letter, 271, 272; fears President Johnson will lend himself to the Copperheads, 271, 276; his opinion of President Johnson's attitude, 276, 278, 279; accompanies his brother on a trip to the Western posts, 277; his political position, 278; his comments on the Reconstruction Law, 289, 290; goes abroad, 290; his comments on Gen. Grant as a Presidential candidate, 292, 293; his letter to the "National Intelligencer," 309, 310; his comments on the trial of President Johnson, 313-315; confident of Grant's election, 323; Gen. Grant's esteem for, 323; chances of, for Treasury Department, 323, 324; sure of re-election to Congress, 333; re-elected, 334, 335; endorses Hayes, 347; made Secretary of Treasury, 350; his feelings as regards nomination for Presidency, 358, 359; his words concerning Blaine, 359; his re-election to Congress for the fifth time, 366, 367; advised by his brother to go South, 373, 374; his western trip, 376; thinks of retiring, 358, 367, 379; for peace, 380.

Sherman, William Tecumseh, enters West Point, 1; his appearance, 1, 3; his earliest letters, 1,

2; relations towards his brother, 1, 2; his trip West with relatives, 4, 5; visits salt works, 4; advice to his brother concerning salt speculations, 5, 6, 7; his examinations at West Point, 3, 6, 9; his feeling towards England, 7, 8; his views concerning engineering, 10; his opinion of the law profession, 11, 12; his preference in service, 12; his leave after graduation, 13; his partiality for farming, 12; at Fort Pierce, 13 et seq.; comments on the Indian wars, 14; his impatience at prolongation of Indian wars, 19; his first promotion, 21; ordered to Fort Moultrie, S. C., 22; goes on leave to Ohio, 24; account of his journey through Georgia, 24, 25; his words to his brother concerning stump-speaking, 26; wishes Henry Clay to be elected, 26; attends wedding of friend at Wilmington, 27; his anxiety to be sent to Texas, 27, 28; ordered to Augusta arsenal, Ga., 28; his views concerning annexation of Texas, 28; views concerning conduct of the English in case of war, 29; his predictions concerning war in South, 29, 30, 84, 88; sails for California, 31; his description of journey to California, 32-36; his opinion of treaty of peace at end of Mexican War, 46, 47; leaves California, 48; his marriage, 48; advises his brother to shun politics, 49; goes to New Orleans, 50; resigns from the army and joins banking firm of Lucas, Turner & Co., 50, 51; congratulates his brother on his election to Congress, 53; his opinion concerning the Senate, 53; advice to his brother as to his course in politics, 56, 57; his opinion of Vigilance Committee,

58, 59, 62; his words concerning route to California, 56, 57, 63; abandons banking, 63, 64; fails to secure reinstatement in army, 64; becomes a lawyer, 64; his predictions of war, 64; his opinion of the South, 69, 70; appointed superintendent of military school in Louisiana, 76; refuses an offer from a banking firm in London, 76; counsels moderation towards South, 77, 79; his opinion of Helper's book, 78; his anxiety at situation of political affairs, 80; well sustained in Louisiana, 80; his comments on his brother's New York speech, 83; his anxiety increases, 83; favors nomination of Seward, 83; his comments on Lincoln's opinions, 84; on Douglas, 84; pronounced insane for demanding 75,000 men to defend Kentucky, 88; anticipates immediate secession of Louisiana, 89, 91; urged by his brother to leave Louisiana, 90-92; his comments on taking of Baton Rouge arsenal, 104-106; his firm allegiance to United States, 105, 106; resigns his position at Louisiana State Military Academy, 105-107; visits Lincoln, 108, 109; declines offer of chief clerkship in War Department, 109; his distrust of himself, 109, 122, 123; his distrust of the preparations of the administration, 111, 112; his views concerning conduct of civil war, 113, 114; president of St. Louis Railroad Company, 114; approves appointment of McClellan, 115; offers his services to the Government, 117, 118; his account of the first fighting in the West, 118-120; commends McClellan, 121; appointed colonel of a three-battalion regiment of regulars, 121, 122, 124; his judgment of Thomas and Sykes, 123; attached to Gen. Scott's staff, 124; given command of a brigade in McDowell's army, 125; starts to action, 125; at Bull Run, 126; goes West, 126; mutiny in regiments of, 126; meets Gen. Anderson, 127; anxiety lest Beauregard take Washington, 126, 128; his relations with Gov. Dennison, 129; his efforts to save Kentucky, 130 et seq.; ordered to Muldraugh's Hill, 131, 132; in command in place of Gen. Anderson, 133; his endeavors to secure more men, 133, 134; relieved by Gen. Buell, 135; at Benton Barracks, Mo., 136; his reasons for ordering Gen. Thomas to fall back from London, 136, 137; believes Buell can manage better than himself, 138; ordered to Paducah, 139; at Shiloh, 141; wounded in the hand, 141; his division made of bad regiments, 141; indignation at false newspaper reports, 143; indignation at deserters, 145, 146; meets his old Kentucky command, 148; his faith in Lincoln, 148; his opinion on publishing reports, 148; his official report on battle of Shiloh, 148, 150; made Major-General, 151; his division order issued at Corinth, 151-154; his leniency to the rebels, 157; ordered to Memphis, 159; urges gravity of the civil war, 160, 162, 165, 169, 180; reported as having spoken ill of his brother, 164; denies the evil report, 166; joins forces with Grant, 168, 170, 171; his remarks on the attack on Vicksburg, 172, 173; his severe judgment of absentees, 177; John Sherman's opinion of, as an officer, 178; believes Mr. Lincoln intended an insult in placing

McClelland over him, 181, 182; resents interference with the generals by politicians at home, 182; attacks Arkansas Post, 183; the newspapers down on, 186; his official report on Vicksburg, 181, 186; justified in his attack on Vicksburg, 186; his censure of the press and newspaper correspondents, 187-194, 197, 213; arrests Knox, a newspaper correspondent, 188; his opinion of the Conscript Bill, 193; pleased with his brother's course in Congress, 193; inclined to resign, 182; urged by his brother not to resign, 193, 250; change of feeling towards, 196, 201, 207, 210; opinion of the Finance and Conscript Acts, 196, 197; opposed to consolidation clause in Conscript Act, 199, 200; encountered calumny and abuse at Vicksburg, 203; does not approve Gen. Grant's movements, 204; his popularity second only to that of Grant, 207; his share in the Vicksburg campaign, 208; his comments on the law and government of the United States, 211-213; his opinion of the United States as a country, 212; does not want to be brought East, 213; visited in camp by Gen. and Mrs. Grant, 213; proud of his camp, 213; cheered, 214; rebuilds Memphis and Charleston R. R., 215; participates in battle of Chattanooga, siege of Knoxville, then to winter quarters in Alabama, 215, 374, 375; with his family at Lancaster, Ohio, 215; reported incorrectly by Meigs as repulsed at Tunnel Hill, 217; promoted as Brigadier-General in Regular Army, 214; urges introducing bill to Congress increasing number of cadets, 218; thinks President's proclamation unwise, 218; opposed to all bounties, 219; opposed to all printing of biographies and portraits of himself, 220; his friendship with Grant, 219, 224; organizes a cavalry force to sweep down towards Mobile, 221; public dinner to, at Memphis, 221; goes to Cincinnati with Grant, 223; his opinion of Grant, 224, 225; his armies' harmony with and respect for, 220, 226; his armies depleted, 226; cares nothing for squabbles about the Presidency, 227; his views on continuance of the war, 227; his letter to Major Sawyer, 228-233; relieves Gen. Grant of the command of the Division of the Mississippi, 234; following Gen. Johnston in Georgia, 234, 235; the fate of the country dependent on him and Grant, 236, 237; his popularity in Ohio, 237; his letter to Schuyler Colfax concerning soldiers voting, 238; captures Atlanta, 239-241; his march through Georgia, 240, 241; attacked by Gen. Hood, 240; devotion of his soldiers to, 241, 242; in good health, 242; his order issued after the capture of Savannah, 242-244; will not accept a rank to rival Grant's, 245, 304, 305, 307; will not accept political office, 245, 246, 248, 277, 330, 340, 341, 357, 360-362; his march to Goldsboro, 246; his terms with Gen. Johnston, 246-251, 259, 260, 345; his words on reconstruction, 248, 256; his views on negro suffrage, 248, 252-254; acknowledges allegiance to no party, 252; ordered to St. Louis, 252; his comments on Cox's letter, 252; bothered by admiring people, 252; feels there is a desire to be rid of him, 253; complains of Stanton's treatment of him, 253; his military division, 254; visited by Grant at St. Louis, 255; his report on the conduct of the war, 257; foreigners anxious to see, 257; his opinion of his march to the sea, 260; satisfied with Gen. Grant's report, 260, 261; compared to Hannibal, Alexander, and Napoleon, 261; dined and fêted at Detroit, 262; agrees with President Johnson, 263, 265; his comments on the burning of Columbia, S. C., 266, 267; his field order at Columbia, S. C., 268, 269; declines to be made Secretary of War, 275, 277; goes to Mexico, 275, 280, 282-286; accompanies his brother on a trip to the western posts, 277; above politics, 279; his letter of good wishes to President Johnson, 279, 280; his comments on the situation in Mexico, 284-286; his mission to Mexico approved by President and cabinet, 287; his opposition to coming to Washington, 287, 288, 300 et seq.; his praise of Custer, 289; change of feeling for, in the South, 289; Louis Napoleon's opinion of, 290; on commission on Indian troubles, 291, 296, 317 et seq.; his views as to Gen. Grant for Presidential candidate, 294, 295; counsels moderation in rule of the country, 295; summoned to Washington, 297, 308; his advice to Johnson, 297, 298; declines rank of Brevet General, 300, 303-307; unwarrantable newspaper publication of his private note to President Johnson, 308, 309, 312; the publication of the letters of, to President Johnson urged by Gen. Grant, 311; his comments on the trial of President Johnson, 313, 315; his confidence of election of Grant, 319-321; his address of welcome to Gen. Grant at Chicago, 325; his views on the money question, 326; his trip South, 327, 328; succeeds Gen. Grant as Commander-in-Chief, 328, 329; acting as Secretary of War, 328, 329; his pleasure trip West, 329; sends Gen. Johnston his report on conduct of the war, 330; his office slighted, 331-333; contemplates resigning, 332; his European trip, 333-338; his impressions of Italy, 336; his comments on the Presidential candidates of 1872, 337, 338; removes to St. Louis, 339-341; returns to Washington, 339, 350; does not believe in bolstering up weak state governments with United States troops, 342; his memoirs, 343, 345; his differences with Belknap, 346, 348; endorses Hayes, 347; paid his own expenses on European trip, 347, 348; misrepresented in Congress, 353-355; retired, 355; his comments on retirement of officers, 356; mentioned for the Presidency, 357, 358, 360-362; his comments on the Presidential names for 1884, 358; his controversy with Jeff Davis, 362-366; speaks at funeral of Gen. Hancock, 370; his speech in San Francisco, 370-372; removes to New York, 373; his advice to his brother regarding a southern trip, 373, 374; speaks at dedication of Burnside's monument, 375; his views on the returning of the rebel flags, 375, 376; his views as to the annexation of Canada and Mexico, 377; his words concerning the Presidency, 380, 381; refuses to march in procession in Boston, 381.

Shiloh, Battle of, 142-145; deserters at, 145, 146; echo of, in the North, 147; Gen. Sherman's official report on, 148, 150, 155.

Sioux Indians, the, 287, 320.

Slavery, W. T. Sherman's words concerning, 53-55, 70; in the Territories, 97, 98, 107, 108; made the issue of the war by the South, 222.

Slocum, Gen., 268, 269.

Smith, Dr. S. A., 89, 105.

Southern trip, Gen. Sherman's advice to his brother concerning, 373, 374.

South, the, groundless fears of, 95; must yield, 97; attitude of, 107, 108; strong, vindictive feeling of, 127; all armed, 160, 162, 166; stupendous energy of, 180; condition of, 185; hopes to worry the North out, 219; has made slavery the issue of the war, 222; the attitudes of the North and, 229-232; preferred war, 232; beaten, 247; impossible to guard the whole, 254; clamor of, for supposed rights, 261; will need ten years to regain prosperity, 262; the Republican party and the, 263; representation of, in Congress, 260, 263, 265; the feelings of, after the war, 271-274; must accept the 14th amendment, 286; change of feeling in, for Gen. Sherman and President Johnson, 289; solid against Grant, 330.

South Carolina, takes lead in secession, 101; its insignificance, 101.

Specie payment, resumption of, 325, 326.

Stanton, Secretary, less powerful than Gen. Halleck, 204, 205; publishes Meigs' letter as semi-official, 217, 223; a fast friend of Gen. Sherman, 241, 247, 248; John Sherman's condemnation of, 249, 250; dictatorial conduct of, 253; President Johnson's attempts to remove, 275, 300; Gen. Sherman's calls on, 281, 287; his removal, 311; President Johnson's trouble with, 312; his insults to Gen. Sherman, 345.

Stanton, Lieut.-Gov., of Ohio, unpopular, 214.

State authority and United States authority, 120.

States quarrelling, 226.

St. Augustine, description of, 21; life in, 21, 22.

St. Louis, Gen. Sherman president of Railroad Company in, 114; first fighting in, 118-120; loss of, fatal, 162; Gen. Sherman's preference for, 301.

Stephens, Mr., letter of, 365, 366.

Stevens, Mr., 263, 271.

Stone, Gen., 268.

Suffrage, for negroes, see Negroes; extension of, 261; universal, 289, 299.

Sumner, Mr., 248, 263, 264.

Sumter, Fort, compared with Fort Moultrie, 91; fired on, 112.

Supreme Court, danger of rebels controlling the, 378.

Sutter, 44, 45.

Sykes, Capt., 123.

T

Taft, Judge, 349.

Tallahatchee, Gen. Sherman joins forces with Gen. Grant on south bank of, 168, 170, 171.

Taylor, Gen., 38; his death, 48; Washington fatal to, 301; in Mexico, 371, 372.

Tennessee, endeavor to save, for the Union, 127; movements in, 139; Gen. Thomas' success in, 242.

Territories, slavery in, 97, 98.

Terry, Judge, 58-60.

Texas, W. T. Sherman's anxiety to be sent to, 27, 28; Sherman's views as to annexation of, 28.

Thomas, Gen. Geo. H., traits of, 123, 127; ordered by Gen. Sherman to fall back from London, 136, 137, 157; his success in Tennessee, 242, 324.

Thomas, Gen. Lorenzo, 312, 313.

Townsend, G. A., his interview with John Sherman, 381, 382.

Treason in the United States Government, 93, 94, 95.

Tunnel Hill, the assault on, 216, 217.

Turchin, Gen., 157.

U

Union, the necessity of preserving, 93; John Sherman's plea for, 102, 103; reconstruction of, 214, 248; bound by indissoluble ties, 232; the breaking up of, the beginning of anarchy, 237.

United States, Government of, administered by those who permit treason, 93, 94, 95; John Sherman's prediction concerning, 110, 111; in flourishing financial condition, 150; authority and State authority, 120; Government of, must be to an extent despotic, 211-213; a majestic country, 212; too much governed, 327.

V

Venable, Mr., 273.

Vicksburg, campaign, 172 et seq.; Gen. Sherman's remarks on attack on, 172, 173; plans of attack, 174, 201-203, 205, 206; details of attack, 179, 180; a strong place, 180, 181, 206; situation at, in January, 1863, 183, 184; the canals at, 184, 190, 202;

- secret batteries at, revealed by newspaper correspondents, 198; Grant's movement against, 204; the siege of, 205, 206; the fall of, 206-208; Gen. Sherman's share in attack and siege of, 208.
- Vigilance Committee, 53 et seq.
- Virginia secedes, 114.
- W
- Wade, Mr., 199.
- Waite, Justice, 378.
- Walker, Mr., 4.
- War, see Indian, Italy, Mexican War, Civil War.
- War Department, Gen. Sherman declines chief clerkship in, 109, 110.
- Washburne, Mr., 340.
- Washington, Gen. Sherman's opposition to coming to, 287, 288, 300 et seq.; influences of, 301.
- Watts, Major, 198.
- Webster, Daniel, 370, 371, 379.
- West, first fighting in the, 118-120.
- West Point, W. T. Sherman at, 1-13; a better school than the army, 218; a bill to increase number of cadets at, 218, 222, 223; battle at, 239.
- Whites, Union, in the South, cowards, 344.
- Wilson, Mr., 248.
- Windom, Secretary, death of, 381.
- Woods, Gen., 266.
- Wright, Gen., timid, 166.

Norwood Press :

J. S. Cushing & Co. — Berwick & Smith.
Boston, Mass., U.S.A.

