This is your son-in-law,And son unto the King, who — Heavens directing —

Is troth-plight to your daughter. — In the original the is after this is wanting; but the sense plainly requires it, either expressed or understood. Nor is there any real objection to it on the score of metre, since it only makes the fourth foot in the line an Anapest instead of an Iamb; which is among the commonest variations in the Poet's verse. — In the next line, also, the old text has whom instead of who; thus making it the object of directing, and not the subject of is troth-plight, as the sense requires.

Minto's Manual of English Prose Literature.

Designed mainly to show characteristics of style. By WILLIAM MINTO, M.A., Professor of Logic and English Literature in the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. 12mo. Cloth. 566 pages. Mailing Price, $1.65; Introduction, $1.50; Allowance, 40 cents.

THE main design is to assist in directing students in English composition to the merits and defects of our principal writers of prose, enabling them, in some degree at least, to acquire the one and avoid the other. The Introduction analyzes style: elements of style, qualities of style, kinds of composition. Part First gives exhaustive analyses of De Quincey, Macaulay, and Carlyle. These serve as a key to all the other authors treated. Part Second takes up the prose authors in historical order, from the fourteenth century up to the early part of the nineteenth.

H. C. De Motte, Pres. of Chaddock College, Quincy, Ill.: We are delighted with it. It is one of the most serviceable books I have seen on the subject. I shall recommend it for our work here. (Sept. 23, 1886.)

Literature, Cornell Univ., Ithaca, N.Y.: Without going outside of this book, an earnest student could get a knowledge of English prose styles, based on the soundest principles of criticism, such as he could not get in any twenty volumes which I know of. (May 14, 1886.)

Minto's Characteristics of the English Poets, from Chaucer to Shirley.

By WILLIAM MINTO, M.A., Professor of Logic and English Literature in the University of Aberdeen, Scotland. 12mo. Cloth. xi + 382 pages. Mailing Price, $1.65; for Introduction, $1.50; Allowance, 40 cents.

THE chief objects of the author are: (1) To bring into clear light the characteristics of the several poets; and (2) to trace how far each was influenced by his literary predecessors and his contemporaries.

Lessons in English.

Adapted to the Study of American Classics. A text-book for High Schools and Academies. By SARA E. H. LOCKWOOD, Teacher of English in the High School, New Haven, Conn. 12mo. Cloth. xix + 403 pages. Mailing Price, $1.25; for introduction, $1.12. Allowance for an old book in exchange, 35 cents.

Thanatopsis and Other Favorite Poems of Bryant.

Prepared especially to accompany Lockwood's Lessons in English. 12mo. Paper. 61 pages. Mailing Price, 12 cents; for introd., 10 cts.

THIS is, in a word, a practical High School text-book of English, embracing language, composition, rhetoric, and literature. It aims to present, in simple and attractive style, the essentials of good English; and, at the same time, to develop a critical literary taste, by applying these technical rules and principles to the study of American Classics.

The plan provides for a course in English extending over the pupil's first year and a half in the High School, the work being preparatory to the study of English Literature as usually pursued in schools of this grade. These "Lessons" include the most important facts concerning the History and Elements of the Language, Common Errors in the Use of English, the Study of Words, Rules for the Construction of Sentences, Figures of Speech, Punctuation, Letter-Writing, Composition, and Biographical Sketches of the seven authors particularly studied, — Irving, Bryant, Longfellow, Whittier, Hawthorne, Holmes, and Lowell.

No other text-book on English includes so much. It is at once a text-book of rhetoric, a hand-book of composition, and an introduction to American literature. A valuable addition to the book will be found in the lists of references given at the close of most of the chapters and after each biographical sketch. These are intended to aid teachers in their preparation of the lessons, and to furnish pupils with additional sources of information.

The work is the outgrowth of years of experience in the school-room. The plan has been thoroughly tested, and proved to be a good one. Both teachers and pupils testify that by this plan the study of English is made exceedingly interesting and far more profitable than it was when more theoretical text-books were in use. Teachers will find in the book many valuable exercises and lists of questions, and many helpful suggestions as to methods.

John F. Genung, Prof. of Rhetoric in Amherst College, and author of "The Practical Elements of Rhetoric": It is clearly written, concise, with abundant exercises, and taking up the most useful points.

T. Whiting Bancroft, Prof. of Rhetoric, Brown University, Providence, R.I.: It successfully solves the problem to give in condensed form an introduction to the study of our American classics. . . . The author's selection of material is wisely made.

Margaret E. Stratton, Prof. of English and Rhetoric, Wellesley College: It gives a clear and systematic presentation of the subject, and must greatly facilitate the work of the teacher who lays stress not on formal rules but on the frequent practice of rules, and seeks to give with rules abundant illustration; and what is still more important, tries to awake in young minds a just appreciation of the importance of English through the delightful medium of our best writers.

James E. Thomas, English High School, Boston: The best text-book I have thus far seen for the study of English in the high schools.

Harriet O. Nelson, Teacher of Literature, High School, Haverhill, Mass.: It seems to me one of the most practical and suggestive works that I have ever seen.

E. W. Boyd, Head St. Agnes School, Albany, N.Y.: It is the most satisfactory book of the kind I have ever seen.

Charles McLenegan, High School, Milwaukee: The use of the book will be a long step in the right direction. . . . The simplicity and clearness of the book are beautiful. I do not think I ever saw a book of its kind with so little of the dry-as-dust about it.

H. Lee Sellers, Prin. High School, Galveston: To my mind it is the very book we have wanted for many years.

George A. Walton, Agent Massachusetts Board of Education: It must prove a useful book. The matter and the method are excellent.

Alfred S. Roe, Prin. High School, Worcester, Mass.: I have looked the book through carefully, and I can unqualifiedly approve it. I know of nothing better.

J. A. Graves, Prin. South School, Hartford, Conn.: I know of no book that seems to me so well adapted to the wants of high schools and academies.

E. J. MacEwan, Prof. of English, Michigan Agricultural College: I know of nothing that can compare with it for a two years' course in the public schools, — say last year of grammar grade and first year of high school. I shall be glad to put in a word as occasion offers to help you in getting it into such grades, and in helping grades to get the best thing for themselves at the same time.

H. F. Estill, Instructor in Language, Sam Houston Normal Institute, Huntsville, Tex.: In my opinion the book is an admirably clear, compact, and attractive presentation of the essentials of English, and cannot fail to awake in the pupil an appreciation of the strength and beauty of his native tongue, as well as to train him in the art of correct and elegant expression. The chapters on letter-writing and composition are especially good. We have decided to introduce it at once in the Normal School.

The Practical Elements of Rhetoric.

By JOHN F. GENUNG, Ph.D., Professor of Rhetoric in Amherst College
12mo. Cloth. xiv + 483 pages. Mailing Price, $1.40; for introduction,
$1.25; allowance for an old book in exchange 40 cents.

THE treatment is characterized by:—

1. Good Sense. The author, while suitably magnifying his art, recognizes that expression is not a substitute for ideas, that the how of speech is secondary to the what, that Rhetoric is only means to an end, and that its rules and principles and devices must be employed with caution and good sense.

2. Simplicity. Great care has been taken to free the treatment from artificialities. The subjects are most logically ordered, but not too minutely subdivided. So far as possible, terms are used in their popular and usual sense.

3. Originality. In a subject so old and so thoroughly studied each new treatment must take large account of what has been done before. This the author has not failed to do. But principally he has made his book from the study of literature at first hand. Traditional principles and rules have been discarded unless found to rest on a basis of truth and practical value.

4. Availability. The treatment is throughout constructive. The student is regarded at every step as endeavoring to make literature, and is given just what is indispensable to this end. On every point the main problems of construction are stated and solved. Again, the work has been prepared not more in the study than in the classroom, and the adaptation kept constantly in mind of every usage and principle to the actual needs of the actual student.

5. Completeness. All of the literary forms have been given something of the fulness hitherto accorded only to argument and oratory. This method is clearly in line with modern requirements. Part I. deals with style; Part II. with invention. All questions arising under both these divisions are fully considered.

6. Ample Illustration. Mere precept cannot help seeming arbitrary. In the concrete it bears a different, a more intelligible, and a more convincing look. Accordingly the author has presented no important principle without illustrations drawn from actual usage. It is usage, too, of the best, the most standard writers.

Genung's Rhetoric, though a work on a trite subject, has aroused genuine enthusiasm by its freshness and practical value. Among the many leading institutions that have introduced it are Yale, Wellesley, and Smith Colleges; Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Vanderbilt, and Northwestern Universities; and the Universities of Virginia, North Carolina, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas, and Oregon.

C. F. Richardson, Prof. of English Literature, Dartmouth College, and author of a History of American Literature: I find it excellent both in plan and execution.

Miss Margaret E. Stratton, Prof. of Rhetoric, Wellesley College: The author's treatment of the subject is simple, clear, and sufficiently complete to make his work valuable, whether in the hands of teachers or scholars. There is also a freshness in dealing with rules and precepts which will interest even those students who think rhetoric a dry study, and will help to enliven the task of composition,—the end toward which all teaching of rules should tend.

Miss M. A. Jordan, Prof. of Rhetoric, Smith College, Northampton, Mass.: The critic is conscious of a feeling of surprise as he misses the orthodox dulness. The analysis of topics is clear, the illustrations are pertinent and of value in themselves, the rules are concise and portable.

O. L. Elliott, Instructor in English, Cornell Univ., Ithaca, N. Y.: I am greatly pleased with the book, and am using it in my classes with every promise of good results. The author seems to have broken completely away from the bad traditions which have filled our rhetorics with absurd rules and absurder examples. There is a freshness, vigor, and quiet good sense in both spirit and method that must, I think, commend the book to all teachers of English.

T. W. Hunt, Prof. of English Literature, Princeton College, Princeton, N. J.: It impresses me as a philosophic and useful manual. I like especially its literary spirit.

Jas. M. Garnett, Prof. of English, University of Virginia: I have carefully read the whole of it, and am determined to introduce it at once into my class. It suits me better than any other text-book of rhetoric that I have examined.

Charles H. Payne, Pres. of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O.: I have no hesitation in pronouncing it a work of rare excellence. It certainly combines, in a most felicitous way, those qualities claimed for it by the publishers,—good sense, simplicity, originality, availability, completeness, and ample illustration.

W. M. Baskerville, Prof. of English, Vanderbilt University: I found it, according to my opinion, the best practical work on the subject now offered for use in America. I shall adopt it next year. It is new and it is fresh,—a good deal to say about a work on so hackneyed a subject.

W. H. Magruder, Prof. of English, Agricultural and Mechanical College of Mississippi: For clearness of thought, lucidity of expression, aptness of illustration,—in short, for real teaching power,—I have never seen this work equalled.

Hudson's Expurgated Shakespeare.

For Schools, Clubs, and Families. Revised and enlarged Editions of twenty-three Plays. Carefully expurgated, with Explanatory Notes at the bottom of the page, and Critical Notes at the end of each volume. By H. N. HUDSON, LL.D., Editor of The Harvard Shakespeare. One play in each volume. Square 16mo. Varying in size from 128-253 pages. Mailing Price of each: Cloth, 50 cents; Paper, 35 cents. Introduction Price: Cloth, 45 cents; Paper, 30 cents. Per set (in box), $12.00. (To Teachers, $10.00.)

SOME of the special features of this edition are the convenient size and shape of the volumes; the clear type, superior press-work, and attractive binding; the ample introductions; the explanatory notes, easily found at the foot of the page; the critical notes for special study; the judicious expurgation, never mangling either style or story; the acute and sympathetic criticism that has come to be associated with Dr. HUDSON's name; and, finally, the reasonableness of the price.

Oliver Wendell Holmes: An edition of any play of Shakespeare's to which Mr. Hudson's name is affixed does not need a line from anybody to commend it.

Cyrus Northrop, Prof. of English Literature, Yale College: They are convenient in form and edited by Hudson,—two good things which I can see at a glance.

Hiram Corson, Prof. of Rhet. and Eng. Lit., Cornell University: I consider them altogether excellent. The notes give all the aid needed for an understanding of the text, without waste and distraction of the student's mind. The introductory matter to the several plays is especially worthy of approbation. (Jan. 28, 1887.)

C. F. P. Bancroft, Prin. of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.: Mr. Hudson's appreciation of Shakespeare amounted to genius. His editing accordingly exhibits more than learning and industry,—it reveals insight, sympathy, and conviction. He leads the pupil into the very mind and heart of "the thousand-souled Shakespeare."

Byron Groce, Master in Public Latin School, Boston: The amended text is satisfactory; the typography is excellent; the notes are brief, always helpful, not too numerous, and put where they will do the most good; the introductions are vigorous, inspiring, keenly and soundly critical, and very attractive to boys, especially on account of their directness and warmth, for all boys like enthusiasm. (Jan. 22, 1887.)

C. T. Winchester, Prof. of English, Wesleyan University: The notes and comments in the school edition are admirably fitted to the need of the student, removing his difficulties by stimulating his interest and quickening his perception. (Feb. 10, 1887.)

A. C. Perkins, Prin. of Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn: In the preparation of the School Shakespeare, Mr. Hudson met fully the capacities and needs of students in our schools and colleges. (Feb. 4, 1887.)

The series consists of the twenty-three plays enumerated below. We furnish of the Old Edition, in paper covers, the plays starred in the following list (Mailing Price, 20 cents; Introduction, 15 cents):—

Buyers should be careful in ordering not to confound the Harvard Shakespeare with an Old Edition made in 1851, and sold under another name.

THIS is pre-eminently the edition for libraries, students, and general readers. The type, paper, and binding are attractive and superior, and the notes represent the editor's ripest thought.

An obvious merit of this edition is, that each volume has two sets of notes; one mainly devoted to explaining the text, and placed at the foot of the page; the other mostly occupied with matters of textual comment and criticism, and printed at the end of each play. This arrangement is particularly suited to the convenience of the general student, who does not wish to hunt for an explanation; and to the wants of the special student, who desires extended discussion of a difficulty.

E. P. Whipple, The Noted Critic: Hudson's is the most thoughtful and intelligent interpretative criticism which has, during the present century, been written, either in English or German.

N. Y. Evening Express: The most satisfactory and complete edition we have.

N. Y. Tribune: As an interpreter of Shakespeare, imbued with the vital essence of the great English dramatist, and equally qualified by insight and study to penetrate the deepest significance of his writings, it would be difficult to name an English or American scholar who can be compared with the editor of this edition.

Hudson's Life, Art, and Characters of Shakespeare (Revised Edition, 1882).

Shakespeare and Chaucer Examinations.

Edited, with some remarks on the "Class-Room Study of Shakespeare," by WILLIAM TAYLOR THOM, M.A., Professor of English in Hollins Institute, Va. Square 16mo. Cloth. 346 pages. Mailing Price, $1.10; for introduction, $1.00.

THIS is a revised and enlarged edition of the Two Shakespeare Examinations, published several years and very much liked by teachers of English Literature. That book contained two examinations held at Hollins Institute in 1881, on Hamlet; in 1882, on Macbeth, for the annual prize by the New Shakespeare Society of England. Besides these, there are in the new edition the Examinations on King Lear (1883), on Othello (1884), on The Merchant of Venice (1886); a Chaucer Examination (1886), set chiefly by Professor Child, of Harvard University, and based upon the "Prologue," "The Knight's Tale," and the "Nun's Priest's Tale" of the Canterbury Tales; with some additional remarks on the Study of Shakespeare and references to the Tempest.

W. M. Baskervill, Prof. in Vanderbilt University: We heartily recommend these examinations to teachers. They are full of suggestive information. They will serve as admirable models.

Introduction to the Poetry of Robert Browning.

By WILLIAM JOHN ALEXANDER, Ph.D., Munro Professor of the English Language and Literature, Dalhousie College and University, Halifax, N.S., and formerly Fellow of Johns Hopkins University. 12mo. Cloth. v + 212 pages. Mailing Price, $1.10; for introduction, $1.00.

THE book opens with an account of Browning's most striking peculiarities in method and style, and attempts to find an explanation of these in the conditions amidst which the Poet has worked, and in the nature of the themes which he treats. In the next place, an exposition is given of those general ideas pervading his work, which can only be gathered from the study of many of his poems, and yet are needful for the full understanding of almost any one of them. This exposition is contained in a series of chapters treating of "Browning's Philosophy," "Christianity as Presented in Browning's Works," and "Browning's Theory of Art." These chapters are followed by a brief chronological review of his writings, and characterization of his development. The various points treated throughout the Introduction are illustrated by a series of selected poems, furnished with careful analyses and copious critical comments. It is hoped that by thus unfolding, in a few typical examples, the characteristics and merits of Browning, the reader may at once be enabled to acquire a real knowledge of his poetry, and be prepared for further unassisted study of his work. Attention is especially directed to the Analysis of Sordello, much fuller and more exact, it is believed, than any heretofore published.

Arnold's English Literature.Historical and Critical.

With an Appendix on English Metres, and Summaries of the Different Literary Periods. By THOMAS ARNOLD, M.A., of University College, Oxford. American edition. Revised. 12mo. Cloth. 558 pages. Mailing Price, $1.65; Introduction (with or without the following pamphlet), $1.50; Allowance for old book, 40 cents.

The Anglo-Saxon and Norman Periods have been republished, from the fourth revised English edition, and can be furnished in paper binding. Mailing Price, 30 cents; Introduction, 25 cents.

THE student of this manual will receive just impressions of the relative value of names and books, as well as political and religious influences. Indeed, the adjustment and arrangement of material are managed with wonderful dexterity and analytic clearness.

H. H. Morgan, Prin. of High School, St. Louis, Mo.: I should most fully recommend it to any one whose interest in literature was that of the student; for he would find much which could otherwise be obtained only by extensive reading.

First Two Books of Milton's Paradise Lost;and Milton's Lycidas.

By HOMER B. SPRAGUE, Ph.D., formerly Principal of the Girls' High School, Boston. 12mo. Cloth. 198 pages. Mailing Price, 55 cents; Introduction, 45 cents.

THIS edition furnishes convenient and suggestive notes, with excellent type and arrangement, and presents an approved formula for conducting class exercises. It omits fifteen or twenty objectionable lines.

William F. Warren, President of Boston University: It seems to me admirably adapted to its purpose.
