

THE SECRET WOMAN

By EDEN PHILLPOTTS

AUTHOR OF "MY DEVON YEAR," "CHILDREN OF THE MIST," ETC., ETC.

Cloth 12mo $1.50

"Nothing could be more tenderly beautiful than the opening chapter of this, Mr. Phillpotts's strongest story. . . . There cannot be two opinions as to the interest and the power of 'The Secret Woman.' It is not only its author's masterpiece, but it is far in advance of anything he has yet written—and that is to give it higher praise than almost any other comparison with contemporary fiction could afford."

— The Times' Saturday Review (New York).

"One lays down Eden Phillpotts's 'The Secret Woman' with a conviction that it is not only the best novel he has written, but also one of the greatest novels of the decade . . . close-knit, full of human nature, throbbing with passion, alive with thought and action. . . . The drama maintains its intense interest through every change to the exciting close."

— The Record-Herald (Chicago).

"'The Secret Woman' shows a delicacy, an understanding, and a strength which mark the author for the highest rank."

— The Athenæum (London).

"'The Secret Woman' is a work of fiction to be judged by the standards of the best of its kind . . . a genuine book about men and women who really live and love and suffer in its pages. . . . To read it without absorbed interest is impossible."

— The Press (Philadelphia).

"Sombre, passionate, intensely and poignantly dramatic, 'The Secret Woman' is by far the finest novel that Mr. Phillpotts has yet given us, and to say this is to say a good deal. We do not hesitate to declare that the last decade has produced, so far as our knowledge extends, only one English novel of equal power and impressiveness."

— East Anglian Times (London).

"A book of unusual power and passion—by far the best work in fiction that Mr. Phillpotts has put forth within the past two or three years; . . . its tense hold on the sympathy never relaxes; and . . . all together the situation is as strange as it is compelling in its force, and it is handled with skill and vigor. In all, this is a grim but forceful romance."

— The Outlook (New York).

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

64-66 Fifth Avenue, New York

THE AMERICAN PRISONER

A Romance of the West Country

By EDEN PHILLPOTTS

Author of "My Devon Year," "Children of the Mist," etc.

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS BY CLAUDE A. SHEPPERSON

Cloth 12mo $1.50

"Fresh, pure, strong, exciting, with vigorous characters and with both energy and elevation of style, 'The American Prisoner' will, no doubt, command and keep a high place among the novels of the year."

—New York Times.

"'The American Prisoner' is a romance of the west of England—the Dartmoor country—in the troublous times of 1812. British ships of war swept the seas; British arms clashed on the continent and on the borders of the American Republic, and the thirty-acre enclosure of the war prison on the Dartmoor heath was populous with prisoners. . . . It is a tale of absorbing interest and high literary quality, in which strong situations and startling surprises confront the reader at every turn."—North American, Philadelphia.

"As a historical picture, 'The American Prisoner' can be recommended, and as a story it maintains a lively pace throughout."

—St. Louis Republic.

"This is not an ordinary novel. It has enough length, breadth, and depth to satisfy varying tastes of many readers."

—Worcester Spy.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

64-66 Fifth Avenue, New York

THE QUEEN'S QUAIR

OR

The Six Years' Tragedy

By MAURICE HEWLETT

Author of "The Forest Lovers," etc., etc.

Cloth 12mo $1.50

"Mr. Hewlett . . . has simply breathed into the story that most know, and all may know, the breath of life—given color and glow and movement. . . . He has the faculty of entering into the spirit of other times, of reversing the calendar and making the shadowy past parade before one's eyes, throbbing, breathing with the very color and rhythm of life."

—New York Herald.

"'The Queen's Quair' is, from every point of view, a notable contribution to historical portraiture in its subtlety, its vividness of color, its consistency, and its fascination. . . . Above all, it is intensely interesting."

—The Outlook.

"Mr. Hewlett has penetrated and exhibited the wild heart of the Queen and the black hearts of the miscreants who destroyed her. His vision of the Queen is wonderfully complete and vivid. . . . The writing of 'The Queen's Quair' is a literary achievement of high order. The author has worked with brain and heart, and by a perfect sincerity his style has been strengthened and chastened."

—The Nation.

"'The Queen's Quair' is vividly dramatic, brilliantly picturesque, intensely sympathetic. . . . It makes its appeal to the reader chiefly by reason of its intense human interest, maintained by a masterly style."

—The Washington Star.

"'The Queen's Quair' is lively with plot, intrigue, counterplot, plots within plot, dramatic scenes; full of action and full of life; vital with a fascinating interest. . . . It makes an entrancing, brilliant, and romantic story. Mr. Hewlett delineates the Queen with masterful strokes, with vivid, strong coloring, with pathetic touches, with the deep shadows and high lights of her stormy career. The story is absorbing, and claims a breathless attention."

—Grand Rapids Herald.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

64-66 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

THE SEA-WOLF

By JACK LONDON

Author of "The Call of the Wild," "The Faith of Men," etc.

WITH ILLUSTRATIONS BY W. J. AYLWARD

Cloth 12mo $1.50

"'The Sea-Wolf,' Jack London's latest novel of adventure, is one that every reader with good red blood in his veins will hail with delight. There is no fumbling of the trigger here, no nervous and uncertain sighting along the barrel, but the quick decisive aim and the bull's-eye every time."—Mail and Express, New York.

"Jack London's 'The Sea-Wolf' is marvellously truthful. . . . Reading it through at a sitting, we have found it poignantly interesting . . . a superb piece of craftsmanship."

—The New York Tribune.

"Exciting, original, fascinating. . . . Novel and pleasing. . . . So original, vivid, and daring that it commands attention."

—Chicago Record-Herald.

"A stirring, unhackneyed tale . . . its characters are wonderfully real and living. . . . There is plenty of blood in 'The Sea-Wolf,' and the color of it is red."—The New York Times.

"Other fiction seems decidedly losing in savor and piquancy. This story surely has the pure Stevensonian ring, the adventurous glamour, the vertebrate stoicism."—Critic.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

64-66 Fifth Avenue, New York

