

HISTORY OF ENGLAND
—
KNIGHT

5652

VOLS. 3-4

DA30
K7
v.3-4

U
942
K

1020043364

Walter M. Lanyon

2

DEATH OF SIR PHILIP SIDNEY. — Vol. III. 158

THE POPULAR

HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

BY CHARLES KNIGHT,

VOLUME III.

FROM THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

First American Edition.

16899

NEW YORK:
AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE,
TRIBUNE BUILDING.
1880

DEATH OF SIR PHILIP SIDNEY. — Vol. iii. 102.

THE POPULAR

HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

BY

CHARLES KNIGHT.

VOLUME III.

FROM THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH TO THE COMMONWEALTH.

First American Edition.

NEW YORK:
AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE,
TRIBUNE BUILDING.

1880.

16899

DA 30
K7
V.3-4

THE POPULAR

942
K.

HISTORY OF ENGLAND

CHARLES KNIGHT

VOLUME III

FROM THE REIGN OF ELIZABETH TO THE COMMONWEALTH

ACERVO GENERAL

16833

129397

NEW YORK:
AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE,

Tribune Building,

1880

CONTENTS

CHAPTER IV.—A.D. 1568 to A.D. 1561.

Elizabeth proclaimed queen.—She refuses to attend Mass on Christmas-day.—Philip proposes marriage to Elizabeth.—The Commons request that she would marry.—Her answer.—The Coronation progress through the City.—Cecil's plans for the restoration of Protestantism.—Opening of Parliament.—Statute for restoring the supremacy to the Crown.—Statute for the Uniformity of Common Prayer.—Deprivation of bishops.—Peace with France.—Pretensions of Mary Stuart.—Elizabeth the head of the Protestant party of Europe.—Scotland.—Hostility of the queen-regent of Scotland to the Reformers.—Their desire for an alliance with England.—French troops sent to Scotland.—England sends an army and fleet.—Siege of Leith.—Peace concluded at Edinburgh.—Assembly of the parliament of Scotland.—Acts establishing the reformed religion.—Mary refuses to ratify the treaty of Edinburgh.—Death of Francis II.—Mary determines to return to Scotland.—Elizabeth refuses her a safe conduct.—Mary embarks at Calais.—Arrival in Scotland.—Contrasts in the fortunes of Mary and Elizabeth.

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER V.—A.D. 1561 to A.D. 1567.

CHAPTER I.—A.D. 1558 to A.D. 1561.

Elizabeth proclaimed queen.—She refuses to attend Mass on Christmas-day.—Philip proposes marriage to Elizabeth.—The Commons request that she would marry.—Her answer.—The Coronation progress through the City.—Cecil's plans for the restoration of Protestantism.—Opening of Parliament.—Statute for restoring the supremacy to the Crown.—Statute for the Uniformity of Common Prayer.—Deprivation of bishops.—Peace with France.—Pretensions of Mary Stuart.—Elizabeth the head of the Protestant party of Europe.—Scotland.—Hostility of the queen-regent of Scotland to the Reformers.—Their desire for an alliance with England.—French troops sent to Scotland.—England sends an army and fleet.—Siege of Leith.—Peace concluded at Edinburgh.—Assembly of the parliament of Scotland.—Acts establishing the reformed religion.—Mary refuses to ratify the treaty of Edinburgh.—Death of Francis II.—Mary determines to return to Scotland.—Elizabeth refuses her a safe conduct.—Mary embarks at Calais.—Arrival in Scotland.—Contrasts in the fortunes of Mary and Elizabeth.

CHAPTER II.—A.D. 1561 to A.D. 1567.

Public spirit under Elizabeth.—Sports and Processions.—England sends aid to the French Protestants.—Scotland.—Plans for Mary's marriage.—Leicester and Darnley.—Marriage of Mary and Darnley.—The Reformers indignant at the marriage.—Revolt of Murray and other nobles.—Revolt suppressed, and the lords banished.—Darnley and Riccio.—Quarrels of the queen and Darnley.—Plot against Riccio.—Murder of Riccio.—Birth of a Scottish prince.—Ascendency of Bothwell.—Darnley at the Kirk of Field.—Assassination of Darnley.—Mock trial of Bothwell.—Mary carried off.—Marriage of Mary and Bothwell.—Mary surrenders to her nobles.

CHAPTER III.—A.D. 1567 to A.D. 1567.

Mary compelled to resign the Crown.—Murray accepts the Regency.—Escape of Mary from Lochleven.—Circumstances of her escape.—Battle of Langside.—Mary takes refuge in England.—Mary's detention in England.—Conferences of York and London.—Mary placed under charge of the Earl of Shrewsbury.—Anxiety for her safe custody.—The duke of Norfolk and Mary.—Lady Catherine Grey.

CHAPTER IV.—A.D. 1568 to A.D. 1572.

General view of the first ten years of Elizabeth.—Movement of Rome against Protestantism.—The persecutions in the Netherlands and in France.—Intrigues against Elizabeth.—Insurrection of the north.—Pius V. issues a bull of excommunication against Elizabeth.—Parliament of 1571.—Statutes against papists.—Puritanical party in the House of Commons.—Motion for reform of abuses in the Church. Trial and execution of the duke of Norfolk.—Troubles of Scotland.—The Huguenots of France propitiated by the marriage of the prince of Navarre.—Coligny shot.—The massacre of Saint Bartholomew resolved upon.—Its perpetration.—Effect of the news upon the court and people of England.—New danger of the queen of Scots. Page 82—97

CHAPTER V.—A.D. 1572 to A.D. 1586.

Jesuits in England.—Campion.—Increased severities against Papists.—Expedition to the Netherlands.—Leicester in the Netherlands.—Death of Sir Philip Sidney.—Naval successes under Drake.—Babington's conspiracy.—Trial of the conspirators.—Alleged complicity of Mary in the plot.—Mary's papers seized.—She is removed to Fotheringay Castle. 98—111

CHAPTER VI.—A.D. 1584 to A.D. 1587.

The Association.—Statute for the surety of the queen's person.—Commissions for trial of Mary.—Proceedings on the trial.—Judgment against Mary.—Conflicting opinions on this judgment.—The parliament urge the execution of the sentence.—The judgment proclaimed.—Conduct of Elizabeth.—Interview with Davison.—Warrant of execution.—Mary beheaded at Fotheringay.—Elizabeth disavows her responsibility in this proceeding.—The disavowal a self-deception.—Note on the statement that Elizabeth desired that the Queen of Scots might be privately assassinated. 112—135

CHAPTER VII.—A.D. 1587 to A.D. 1588.

Funeral of Sir Philip Sidney.—Preparations for the Invasion of England by Spain.—Drake's Expedition to Cadiz.—Suspected policy of James VI.—The Armada announced.—The spirit of the country.—Camp at Tilbury.—The Mariners of England.—Defences of the coast.—The demeanour of the queen.—Her oration at Tilbury.—Loyalty of the Catholics. 136—147

CHAPTER VIII.—A.D. 1588 to A.D. 1589.

Sailing of the Armada.—The English fleet.—The Armada off Plymouth.—The fight up Channel.—The run to Calais.—The Fire ships at Calais.—The fight off Gravelines.—The flight to the North.—The Deliverance.—The Thanksgivings.—Spain makes new preparations.—Expeditions against Spain.—The heroic time. 148—165

CHAPTER IX.—A.D. 1567 to A.D. 1593.

The three religious classes of the second half of the reign of Elizabeth.—Progress of Non-Conformity.—Statute against the Puritans.—The Puritan enmity to the habits of society.—Philip Stubbes' Anatomy of Abuses.—Pride of Apparel.—Gluttony and Drunkenness.—Dancing considered a vice.—Music held to be corrupting.—The Sabbath profaned by Sports.—The Lord of Misrule.—May-games; Wakes; Church-ales.—Country festivals.—Athletic exercises and sports.—Gaming.—Stage Plays. 166—183

CHAPTER X.—A.D. 1589 to A.D. 1598.

Henry of Navarre succeeds to the throne of France.—English expeditions to aid Henry IV.—A Parliament called.—Contests of the Crown and the Commons.—Intrigues of Spain in Scotland.—Naval expeditions.—The taking of Cadiz.—Parliament.—Statutes regarding the Poor.—Progress of Poor Law Legislation.—Poverty and Vagabondage.—Labourers refusing to work at usual wages.—Egyptians and pretended Egyptians.—Villanies of London.—Insecurity of the Suburbs.—Statutes against the increase of Buildings.—Alms-houses.—Incidental causes of Indigence.—Fluctuation of Price.—Sickness.—Nuisances.—Fires.—Insufficient household accommodation.—Increase of town populations.—Crimes of towns.—Police. Page 184—205

CHAPTER XI.—A.D. 1598 to A.D. 1603.

Death of Lord Burleigh.—Death of Philip II.—Condition of Ireland.—Rebellion of Tyrone.—Essex appointed Lord-lieutenant of Ireland.—His bootless campaign.—Essex suddenly returns to England.—He is committed to free custody, and then suspended from his offices.—His discontent, and schemes for redress.—Armed assembly at Essex House.—Attempt at insurrection.—Essex and Southampton tried for high-treason.—Conduct of Bacon on that trial.—Essex executed.—Scotland.—The Gowrie conspiracy.—The last parliament of Elizabeth.—Debates on a subsidy.—Bill for abating monopolies.—The queen's wisdom is yielding to public opinion.—Death of Elizabeth.—Note on the story of Essex's ring. 206—226

CHAPTER XII.—A.D. 1588 to A.D. 1603.

Literature and Art characteristic of the periods of their production.—First years of Elizabethan literature bore the impress of the two preceding reigns.—Sackville.—The early popular drama.—Marlowe and the contemporary dramatists.—Growing refinement.—Spenser.—Shakspeare.—Lyrical poetry.—Its association with Music.—Rural images in the poets connected with the pleasurable aspects of country life.—Architecture.—The palatial mansion.—Gardens.—The gentleman's manor-house.—Classical education. 227—237

CHAPTER XIII.—A.D. 1603 to A.D. 1604.

James proclaimed king of England.—Question of the Succession.—Sir Robert Carey's ride to Edinburgh.—James quits Scotland.—His progress to London.—His system of punishments and rewards.—Cecil's influence.—The coronation.—Raleigh, Cobham, Grey, and others arrested on charges of conspiracy.—The two plots.—Trial of Raleigh.—His conviction and long imprisonment.—Conferences at Hampton Court.—Meeting of Parliament.—Contest between the King and the House of Commons upon a question of Privilege.—Statutes of this session.—Wardship.—Purveyance.—Temper of the Commons.—Peace with Spain.—James proclaimed king of Great Britain.—Character of James. 238—252

CHAPTER XIV.—A.D. 1605.

The Gunpowder Plot.—Lord Mounteagle receives a letter.—Salisbury is made acquainted with the letter.—Its interpretation.—Search under the Parliament House.—Seizure of Fawkes.—The other Conspirators.—The preparations during eighteen previous months.—Their proceedings after the discovery.—They resist the sheriff.—Some killed, others taken prisoners.—Feelings of the Roman Catholics.—Ben Jonson.—Trial of Fawkes and others.—Garnet the Jesuit.—His conviction.—His doctrine of Equivocation. 253—270

CHAPTER XV.—A.D. 1606 to A.D. 1613.

Parliament of 1606.—Statutes against Papists.—Game Laws.—Manners of the Court.—Lavishness of James upon his favourites.—Feudal aid.—Impositions upon merchandise.—First Settlement in Virginia.—Progress of the Colony.—Settlement of the Pilgrim Fathers in Massachusetts.—Charter of the East India Company.—First Factory at Surat.—The Mogul Rulers of Hindostan.—Embassy of Sir Thomas Roe.—Dissolution of the Parliament.—Murder of Henry IV. of France.—Authorised translation of the Bible.—Ireland.—Plantation of Ulster.—Creation of Baronets.—The New River.—Increase of London 271—290

CHAPTER XVI. A.D. 1604 to A.D. 1620.

Arabella Stuart.—Death of Salisbury.—Robert Carr, king's favorite.—Death of Prince Henry.—Marriage of the Princess Elizabeth.—The addled Parliament.—George Villiers, the new favourite.—Murder of Overbury.—Trials for the murder.—Somerset and his countess convicted.—Conduct of the King.—Sir Edward Coke dismissed.—Proclamation for Sports.—Note on the Secret Communications between the King and Sir George More. 291—307

CHAPTER XVII.—A.D. 1616 to A.D. 1625.

Release of Raleigh.—Raleigh's expedition to Guiana.—Raleigh returns to England.—His execution under his former sentence.—Affairs of the Palatinate.—The Elector defeated at Prague.—Parliament.—Monopolists.—Lord Bacon impeached.—Conduct of Parliament in Floyd's case.—The King and the Parliament at issue.—Parliament dissolved.—Prince Charles and Villiers in Spain.—The proposed marriage of Charles with the Infanta broken off.—Rejoicings in England.—Parliament.—War declared against Spain.—Death of King James 308—324

CHAPTER XVIII.—A.D. 1625 to AD. 1630.

Accession of Charles I.—Marriage of the king with Henrietta Maria.—The first Parliament of Charles.—Grievances.—Naval failures.—The second Parliament.—Contests of Peers and Commons with the Crown.—Subsidies illegally levied.—Imprisonments for refusals to pay.—The Queen's foreign attendants dismissed.—War with France.—Its causes.—La Rochelle.—Expedition to the Isle of Rhé.—The third Parliament.—Petition of Right.—Buckingham denounced in the Commons' House.—Prorogation of Parliament.—Siege of La Rochelle.—Buckingham and Richeieu.—Assassination of Buckingham.—Felton, the assassin.—Surrender of La Rochelle.—Parliament.—Religious differences.—Parliament dissolved in anger.—Members imprisoned.—Peace with Spain and France 325—345

CHAPTER XIX.—A.D. 1629 to A.D. 2638.

Absolute government.—Condition of England from 1629 to 1637.—Contrasts of France and England.—Imprisoned Members.—Sir John Eliot.—His death in prison.—Wentworth.—Lord President of the North.—Lord Deputy of Ireland.—His principles of government.—Prynne's Histrio-Mastix.—His punishment.—Masques and Plays.—Character of the Drama.—Book of Sports.—Thorough, in Church and State.—Monopolies.—Proclamations against building in London.—Other arbitrary Proclamations.—First project of Ship-Money.—The writ of Shi.—Money extended.—The Judges sanction the writs.—John Hampden.—Solemn trial of the validity of the writ of Ship-Money.—Hampden adjudged to pay.—Prynne, Burton, and Bastwick.—The despotism of Charles not effective of any public improvements.—His alleged patronage of the Fine Arts.—Note, on the portraits of Charles 346—370

CHAPTER XX.—A.D. 1633 to A.D. 1640.

Scotland.—Visit of the king in 1633.—A Service-book commanded to be used in 1637.—The National Covenant.—Progress of the troubles in Scotland.—The General Assembly.—The king and the Scots levy forces.—The king at Berwick.—Camp of the Covenanters.—An English Parliament.—Suddenly dissolved.—Convocation continues to sit.—The Scottish war resumed.—Rout of Newburn.—Council of Peers.—Cessation of arms.—An English Parliament summoned.—Character of the House of Commons.—Strafford.—Laud 371—385

CHAPTER XXI.—A.D. 1640 to A.D. 1641.

The Long Parliament.—Difficulty of narrating its history in a limited space.—Of what manner of men composed on its first meeting.—Opening of the Parliament.—Election of Speaker.—Petitions from the prisoners under sentence of the Star-Chamber.—Their triumphal entry into London.—Arrival of the earl of Strafford.—The House of Commons resolve to impeach him.—His arrest.—Arrest of archbishop Laud.—Impeached of high-treason and committed to the Tower.—Finch, the Lord-keeper, and Windebank, Secretary of State, fly the country.—The judges in the case of ship-money proceeded against.—Destruction of crosses and images.—Charges against Strafford.—His trial.—Arrangements of Westminster Hall.—Daily course of proceedings.—Bill of attainder proposed in the House of Commons.—Disclosure of Henry Vane.—Strafford's last speech in his defence.—Pym's reply.—Close of the trial.—The bill of attainder passed by both Houses.—Army plots and popular clamours.—Protestation.—Efforts of the king to save Strafford.—He finally abandons him.—His execution 386—407

CHAPTER XXII.—A.D. 1641 to A.D. 1642.

Act for the non-dissolution of Parliament.—Jealousy of the Commons.—Principal legislative measures.—Ship-Money; Star-Chamber; Local arbitrary Courts; Court of High Commission; Forests; Writs for knighthood.—English and Scottish armies disbanded.—The king goes to Scotland.—Intrigues with Montrose.—Parliament re-assembles.—The Irish insurrection.—The king's progress in London.—Debate on the Remonstrance.—The king's entertainment in the city.—Struggle of parties.—The Remonstrance presented.—The king at Whitehall.—Tumults.—Protest, and commitment of twelve bishops.—Articles of treason exhibited against lord Kimbolton and five members of the Commons.—The king attempts to seize the five members.—The house adjourned 408—428

CHAPTER XXIII.—A.D. 1642.

The king demands the Members at Guildhall.—Manifestations of popular discontent.—The king removes from Whitehall.—The Members brought back in triumph.—The queen leaves England.—Conference at Newmarket.—The king refused entrance to Hull.—Parliamentary Ordinance for the Militia.—The king forms a body guard at York.—Propositions of the Parliament.—View of society immediately before the commencement of the Civil War.—Arming of the People.—The Cavaliers.—Influence and character of the Puritans.—The Clergy.—Shutting up of the Playhouses.—

Volunteers of London.—Women petitioning.—London apprentices.—Industry affected by the preparations for civil war.—Disturbances in the country districts.—Maintenance of order generally.—Influence of the Press.—The Poets.—The Journalists.—Superstitions.—The king sets up his Standard at Nottingham.—His gloomy prospects.—Messages between the king and parliament.—Essex marches from London. Page 429—454

CHAPTER XXIV.—A.D. 1642 to A.D. 1643.

Beginnings of the Civil War.—The king marches to Shrewsbury.—Skirmish at Worcester.—Battle of Edgehill.—The night and day after the battle.—Richard Baxter visits the battle-field.—The king marches upon London.—The fight at Brentford.—The royalists retire.—The Londoners march to Turnham Green.—The war spreading through England.—The queen lands with an army.—The court at Oxford.—Administration of justice.—Reading surrendered to Essex. 455—474

CHAPTER XXV.—A.D. 1643.

The queen joins her husband.—Various incidents of the war.—Bristol taken by assault.—Proposals for peace rejected by a small majority of the Commons.—Popular disturbances in London.—The siege of Gloucester.—Defence of Gloucester.—Essex marches to its relief.—The king and his army retire.—The Parliamentary army march towards London.—The battle of Newbury.—Prowess of the Trained Bands.—Death of Lord Falkland.—The Sortes Virgilianæ.—The royal success becoming more doubtful.—Negotiations for an alliance between the Scots and the Parliament.—The solemn League and Covenant.—Essex returns to London.—Growing importance of Cromwell.—Skirmish of Winceby.—Death of Pym.—The Covenant severely enforced.—Ejected ministers. 475—489

CHAPTER XXVI.—A.D. 1643 to A.D. 1645.

The Scots enter England.—The Irish army defeated at Nantwich.—A Parliament summoned to meet at Oxford.—Combined armies besiege York.—Lathom House.—Battle of Marston Moor.—The queen leaves England.—Essex defeated in the West.—Second battle of Newbury.—Difference between the Parliamentary Commanders.—Laud condemned for treason by ordinance of parliament.—Treaty of Uxbridge.—Montrose's victories in the Western Highlands.—Self-denying Ordinance.—Fairfax lord-general of the re-modelled army.—Cromwell lieutenant-general.—The battle of Naseby.—The King's Cabinet Opened.—Surrender of Bristol by Rupert.—Basing house taken. 490—509

CHAPTER XXVII.—A.D. 1645 to A.D. 1647.

Destruction of the Manor Houses.—Miseries of Sieges.—Montrose defeated at Philiphaugh.—Defeat of Digby.—His Cabinet taken.—The King in Oxford.—Overtures for Pacification.—Termination of the War in the West.—Prince of Wales leaves for Scilly.—The King negotiates with the Scots.—The King's Flight from Oxford.—Adventures of the King on his way to the Scottish Army.—The King with the Army before Newark.—State of Parties.—Negotiations.—The King surrendered to English Commissioners.—Capitulation of Oxford.—End of first Civil War. 510—529

CHAPTER XXVIII.—A.D. 1647.

The King at Holmby House.—Army Independents.—Cromwell.—The Army proposed to be disbanded.—Petitions from Officers.—Adjutors.—The King removed from

Holmby by Cornet Joyce.—Commissioners at Triploe Heath.—The Army advances towards London.—The King's treatment in the Army.—Proposals of the Independents to the King.—The King rejects the Proposals.—Tumults in London.—The Army advances.—The Speakers and Members go to the Army.—London submits.—The King at Hampton Court.—Cromwell.—The intercepted Letter of the King.—Charles makes his escape from Hampton Court. Page 530—551

CHAPTER XXIX.—A.D. 1647 to A.D. 1648.

Narratives of the king's Escape.—He goes to the Isle of Wight.—The Levellers in the Army.—Their meeting suppressed.—Berkeley's unsuccessful mission to Fairfax and Cromwell.—Scotch and English Commissioners at Carisbrook.—Parliament declares against any further treaty with the king.—Royalist Re-action.—Riots in London.—Revolts in many districts.—The king attempts to escape from Carisbrook.—Insurrections quelled.—Cromwell in Wales.—Scottish Army in England.—Cromwell's march from Wales.—Battle of Preston.—Cromwell in Edinburgh.—Note on the party-spirit during the Royalist reaction. 552—567

CHAPTER XXX.—A.D. 1648 to A.D. 1649.

Treaty of Newport.—Concessions of the King.—Remonstrance of the Army.—Cromwell's Letter to Hammond.—The King carried to Hurst Castle.—Members ejected from the Commons' House.—The king removed to Windsor.—Ordinance for the king's trial.—The High Court of Justice appointed.—The king before the High Court.—The king sentenced to death.—The king after his condemnation.—The king's execution. 568—586

CHAPTER XXXI.—A.D. 1649 to A.D. 1650.

Proclamation against a new king.—The Icon Basiliké.—Council of State appointed.—Trial and Execution of Royalists.—The Levellers.—The Levellers in the Army suppressed.—Trial of Lilburne.—Charles II. at St. Germain's.—Ireland.—Cromwell Lord Lieutenant.—Cromwell's Campaign.—Drogheda.—Wexford.—Cromwell's Account of the Slaughters.—Waterford.—Rupert driven from the Coast.—Surrender of Cork.—Cromwell's Policy in Ireland.—Cromwell returns to London. 587—605

CHAPTER XXXII.—A.D. 1650 to A.D. 1651.

Charles II. negotiates with the Scottish Parliament.—His commission to Montrose.—Montrose in Scotland.—Execution of Montrose.—Charles goes to Scotland.—War with Scotland.—Cromwell General.—Cromwell's Advance.—His Danger.—Position of the two Armies at Dunbar.—Battle of Dunbar.—Charles crowned at Scone.—Perth taken by Cromwell.—Charles and the Scotch Army in England.—The Battle of Worcester.—Escape and Adventures of Charles.—Charles returns to France.—Note.—Whitelocke's Description of Cromwell's Army, in a Conversation with Christina, queen of Sweden. 606—627

TABLE OF CONTEMPORARY SOVEREIGNS. 628