C.

C Thay, Is the third letter of the alphabet, and before e and i has generally the sound of the English th in thick; before a, o, u, l, and r, it sounds like k. It is also a numeral, as, C. 100; L. 500; and Cl. 1000.—The Spanish academicians consider ch as a distinct letter, double in figure but simple in value, and therefore place it after all the other words beginning with a c; but in this work it is retained in the place usual in English, for the reasons given in the preface. Ch has always the soft sound in Spanish, the same as in the English word church: formerly it was pronounced as k in words derived from Greek or Hebrew, but in such words the k is now omitted, or the orthography changed, as Cristo, formerly written Christo; Querubín, formerly written Chérubin, &c. CA, cab, part. (Obs.) Because, for the same as.
