LECTURA: "THE ORIGIN OF HALLOWEEN"

In 835 A.D., the Roman Catholic Church declared November 1, a church holiday to honor all saints. The name Halloween is a short way of saying All Hallow's Eve, the night before All Saints' Day. Hallow means holly or sacred. Although Halloween gets its name from a Christian festival, its customs are of pagan origin. They come from two different sources: an ancient Celtic festival in honor of Samhain, lord of death, and a Roman festival in honor of Pomona, goddess of gardens and orchards. The Halloween colors, orange and black, suggest both ideas: harvest time and death.

The "spooky" part of Halloween comes from the Celts, who occupied the British Isles and northern France during ancient and medieval times. The Celts adored the gods of nature. They feared the coming of winter and associated it with death and evil spirits. Every year on October 31, the last day of the old pagan calendar, the Druids built huge bonfires to scare away the demons of evil and death. They dressed in ugly and frightening costumes so that the demons would think that they were one of them and do them no harm. On this evening, ghosts arose from their graves and witches rode through the air on brooms or black cats. Also, the souls of dead relatives and friends were expected to return to earth for a visit. The bonfires were on hilltops to guide these spirits back home.

From the Druid religion came the custom of masquerading and the symbols of Halloween: ghosts, skeletons, devils, witches, bats, black cats and owls.

The Irish introduced the "trick - or - treat" custom hundreds of years ago. Groups of farmers went from house to house asking for food for the village. They wished good luck to generous people and threatened those who were stingy.

Today American children go "trick or treating" not only for candy and other goodies, but also to collect money for such charitable organizations as UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund).

- a) The Vikings
- b) The Indians
- c) The Celts
- d) The Romans

The harvest part of the Druid celebration became more significant after 55 B.C., when the Romans invaded England. They brought with them their harvest festival of Pomona. Nuts and fruits, especially apples, became part of the Samhain ceremonies. Today at Halloween time, Americans honor the harvest by displaying pumpkins, eating nuts, autumn fruits and pumpkin pies and by playing games with apples.

Irish immigrants brought their Halloween customs to the United States and it became an important celebration. Halloween began in ancient times as an evening of terror; nowadays, it is an occasion of great merriment for youngsters.
