What words in Lesson 111 drop the final e? Before what affixes do they drop it? Before what do they not drop it? What words in the same Lesson double the final consonant? What sign indicates this doubling?

Exercise 41. He bïd or bäde me enter. The BÄLK' ING horse balked all my efforts. The CLÖS' ING sentence was very fine. Give me the GUÍD' ING rein, for he will not go without GUÍD' ANCE. The HIRE' D ED man stöwed away the LÜG' GÄGE in the BÖND' ED warehouse for SÄFE' TY. GUÍD' ED by the light, we went on. They were sent to me, CURVED as you now see them. He made allowance for the SHRINK' AGE. In CLÖS' ING the door he hurt his hand. FAIL ING to arrive prompt ly, he was prompt' ly dismissed. Of what use are laws without PEN' AL TIES?

What three marked words, in ing, in this Exercise, are adjectives? What two are participles? What two, ending in ed, are verbs? What two in ed are adjectives? What two in ed are participles? Which words are adverbs? (See page 11.)

LESSON 124. 95 words.

Rule XVIII. When the ending ble takes the affix y, the two form one syllable in bly, without changing the accent of the original word; but when the ending ble takes the affix ity, the ble becomes bil, with the accent on the syllable bil. Thus, cul'pa bly-y becomes cul'pa bly; and cul'pa ble-ity becomes cul'pa bill'i ty. In like manner the ending ple changes to ply; as, am'ple-y, am'ply. See also Rule XIV., and Notes, p. 152.

Signification. The affix ity generally denotes state, quality, or condition of being; as, vis i bli'i ty, the state or quality of being visible.
