

Tunnel—Continued.

in building, 273, 274; location of, 275; contract for, size, 276, 277; discharged, managed by, 277; length of, 280

V

Valley of Mexico, its development, 106, 107; topographical conditions, 267
 Van Boot, Adrian, sent to make a report, his plan, 271
 Vanilla, where grown, production, varieties, etc., 52; how sold, 53
 Vegetation, 36
 Velasco, Viceroy Don Luis de, 271

W

Wages, advantages of foreign labor, 48; prevents immigration to Mexico of poor people, 126-9

Warner, Charles Dudley, Mexico compared with other countries, 10; climate of Mexico, 42, 43; on church edifices, 92, 93

Water, Mr. J. A., Pinos Altos Gold Mine, 14

Winds, 38

Woods, cabinet and dye, where grown, some of the species, 43, 44, 55

Y

Yuca, when and where grown, 54; yield, 55

Yucatan, configuration, civilization, 9

Z

Zapote, use, 63

Zones, products of cold, temperate, and hot, 58

HISTORICAL NOTES ON MEXICO.

A

Abascal, General, Viceroy of Peru, 305
 Abasolo, Captain, who joined Hidalgo, his plan of military operations to free Mexico, 343

Absolutist Party, Peruvian officers enlisted in, 305

Aculco, Hidalgo attacked and defeated at, by the Spanish army under Calleja, November 7, 1810, 343

Adams, John, Ex-President, published revolutionary manifesto signed in Paris on December 22, 1797, to explain his conduct, 290; letter referred to in which he explains his conduct toward Mexico, 292

Adams, John Quincy, Ex-President, Report of, as Secretary of State, on sympathy of United States for Mexico in movement for independence, 318; letter to, of November 5, 1818, from Mr. Gallatin, United States Minister at Paris, showing sympathy United States felt for Mexico in cause of independence, 319; report of, published in President's Message, showing why United States delayed recognition, wrong motives attributed to M. Romero in regard to remarks about, 327, 328; an anti-slavery man, 329; his views regarding the Panama Congress, 333

Aguirre, Manuel H. de, agent from La Plata and Chili to United States, asking recognition of Province of Buenos Ayres, 323

Aldama, Captain, who joined Hidalgo, 342; proposed plan of military operations to free Mexico, 343

Alexander, compared with San Martin, 306, 307

Allende, Captain, who joined Hidalgo, 342; proposed plan of military operations to free Mexico, 343

Alliance, Holy, its purposes regarding the American colonies of Spain, 331

Alvarez, Juan, leader of Liberal Party in Mexico, 359

American Social Science Association, meeting of, at Saratoga in 1895, Mr. Walter S. Logan's remarks regarding Mexico at, 281; M. Romero's speech at meeting of, 281; article on Mexico enlarging speech at, 282

Anaya, Pedro Maria, President, ad interim, of Mexico, 357, 358

Aranda, Count de, his plan for the independence of the Spanish colonies in America, 287; Liberal Cabinet wanted to carry out plan of, 308; had Charles III. accepted plan of, Mexico would have accomplished independence sooner, 309

Arista, Mariano, President of Mexico in 1851, resigned 1853, 359

Army of the Andes, organized and disciplined by San Martin at Mendoza, 298.

Ayacucho, Upper Peru, battle of, fought on December 9, 1824, between General Sucre, commanding patriot army, and Viceroy La Serna, on the Spanish side and destroyed Spanish power in South America, 306

B

Banquet at New York, March 29, 1864, M. Romero's speech about the conditions in Mexico and the French Intervention, 383-387

Banquet at New York, October 2, 1867, M. Romero's speech at, on the success of Mexico over Maximilian and French Intervention, 387-392

Banquet at New York, December 16, 1891, tendered by Walter S. Logan to M. Romero, 392; M. Romero's speech on future of Mexico and United States, 393-395

Banquet at Boston, January 7, 1892, address of M. Romero on the prosperity of Mexico and the share that Boston has in the same, 397-399

Barradas, General, commander of Spanish expedition to Tampico, 309; sent from Havana to reconquer Mexico, 352

- Bazaine, General, commander of French army, 367; offered to sell General Diaz transportation material, powder, arms, and army clothing, before leaving country, 379
- Becerra, Ricardo, his book, Vida de Don Francisco de Miranda, 282, 283, 290
- Belgrano, General, of Buenos Ayres, leader of movement for independence, 313; signed capitulation treaty, by which General Tristan bound himself not to take up arms during the war against the Argentine Government within the limits of the Viceroyalty of La Plata, 342
- Benton, Thomas, statements regarding President Polk and General Santa Anna, 357, 358
- Bermudez, Venezuelan General and leader of movement of independence, 313; his death, 307
- Bigelow, John, M. Romero asked views of, on cause of downfall of Napoleon, 377; sent by Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, to investigate Mexico as a field for investment, 398
- Bishop of Arequipa, supporter of Spanish rule against independence, 314
- Bishop of Cuzco, supporter of Spanish rule against independence, 314
- Bishop of Huamango, supporter of Spanish rule against independence, 314
- Bishop of La Paz, released Spanish officers from oath during war of independence, 342
- Bishop of Maynas, supporter of Spanish rule against independence, 314
- Bishop of Oaxaca, supporter of Spanish rule against independence, 314
- Bismarck, Prince, took advantage of complicated condition of France in Mexico in 1866, and declared war against Austria, 378
- Blancarte, Colonel, rebelled against Governor of State of Jalisco in Guadalajara, which led to the return of Santa Anna as President of Mexico, 359
- Bland, Theodor, member of Commission of 1817, sent to examine into conditions of Buenos Ayres and Chili, 324
- Bolivar, Juan Vicente, representative from Venezuela to United States, 323
- Bolivar, General Simon, where born, 297; character, 297, 303, 304; ambition of, 306, 307; favored republican form of government, 302, 313; battles in Venezuela and New Granada, 303; sent commissioners to Spain with view to obtain independence of Colombia, 309; agreement signed with General Morillo, 316; met San Martin in Ecuador, 304; refused aid to San Martin, 303; leader of patriot army in battle of Bomboná, in Peru, and defeated Spanish army, 304; royalists capitulated to, 342; completed work of San Martin, 302; hailed as Dictator and Liberator of Peru, in charge Peruvian, Chilian, and Argentine armies, 305; proposed assembling of Panama Congress, 333; thought Spain should be driven out of Cuba and Porto Rico before task was ended, 324, 325
- Bomboná, battle of, in Ecuador, where Spanish army was defeated, 304
- Bonaparte, Joseph, Spanish people rebelled against government of, 342
- Boyacá, battle of, at which Bolivar achieved independence of New Granada, 303
- Bravo, Miguel, Mexican General, captured and shot, 344
- Bravo, Nicolas, magnanimity of, 345, 346; Vice-President of Mexico, 352; exercised government during Santa Anna's absence, 355
- Brayer, Marshal, who had fought under Napoleon, in ranks of South American patriots, 315
- Brittanic Legion, gave active support to Bolivar, 315
- Brown, Admiral, organized Argentine navy, 300
- Buchanan, James, extract from resolution of 1826, 333, 334
- Buckle, Henry Thomas, History of Civilization in England, 288
- Buenos Ayres, only capital never recaptured by Spaniards during War of Independence, 297; expedition sent against, by Viceroy of Peru, suffers defeat, 298; recognition of independence of, by United States Government, 319, 320
- Burr, Aaron, in sympathy with the cause of independence in South America, 293
- Bustamante, General, Vice-President of Mexico, 352; headed rebellion, 352, 353; elected President in 1837, rebelled against twice by General Urrea, went to fight rebels and was defeated, 355
- C
- Caldas, of Colombia, favored cause of independence, 313
- Calhoun, John C., thought United States should act in concurrence with Great Britain in acknowledging independence of Buenos Ayres, 319
- Callao, stronghold of the Spaniards in Peru, fell into the hands of San Martin and rebelled against Peruvian government and was delivered to Spaniards, 305
- Calleja, Spanish General, battles fought by, 343
- Canalizo, General, exercised government

- Canalizo—Continued.
of Mexico during Santa Anna's absence, 355, 356; dissolved Congress, was captured by insurrectionists, 356
- Cancharayada, Chili, only battle in which San Martin was defeated, 297
- Canning, George, his disavowal that Great Britain wanted to take possession of Cuba, 328; suggested Monroe Doctrine, 331
- Canterac, Spanish general, commanded army to relieve Callao, 301; won victory at Ica, 302
- Carabobo, battle of, the Waterloo of the Spaniards in Venezuela, in which independence of Venezuela was achieved, 303
- Carlota, Austrian Archduchess, her mission and interview with Napoleon, sad ending of her cause, 366
- Caro, Señor, sent by General Miranda to obtain assistance from United States, 293; leader in Cuba, 313
- Carrera brothers, Chilian leaders of independence, 313
- Catholic clergy, part taken by them in war of independence, 314; wealth and power of, 340; main support of Spain, 341; attitude in Peru, 342
- Ceballos, Juan Bautista, assumed government of Mexico, dissolved Congress, 359
- Charles III., advised by Count de Aranda to establish three great Spanish empires in America, 287; consequence of his refusal to take Count de Aranda's advice, 309; expelled Jesuits from his dominions, 292
- Charles IV., by treaty of Bayonne, all rights and titles of, transferred to French emperor, 294; suggested to, by Godoy, to go to America and establish empire there, 310
- Chili, San Martin marched to, independence of, agreed to send army to liberate Peru from, 298; her navy, advantageous geographical position of, 299
- Chilian navy, ships and transports forming the, 300
- Church Party, strong, 351; averse to change, 352; wealthy and powerful, 354; prevailed, 359
- Civil wars, causes of, no longer exist in Mexico, comparisons of, between Mexico and Europe, 369; permanence of peace, 369, 370; from 1868 to 1875, La Noria insurrection, headed by General Diaz, 368
- Clark, Justice Walter, of North Carolina, statement that the form of Mexican government changed ten times between 1821 and 1868, 351
- Clay, Henry, resolution favoring independence of Spanish colonies, 317; resolutions of 1818, 321, 322; action toward Cuba, 326; letter from, to Mr. Everett, letter from, to Mexican Minister at Washington, 327; supposed reasons for letter of, to Mr. Everett, 327, 328; extract from letter of, to Baron de Maltitz, showing policy of United States in regard to Cuba and Porto Rico, 329
- Clemente, Lino, Venezuelan agent, refused an interview by United States Government, 323
- Cochrane, Sir Alexander, helped Miranda to proclaim independence, 293; lost man-of-war Intrepido, put in command of Chilian navy, 299; ships commanded by, and how obtained, 300; captured ships at Callao, seized money to pay men, aspersions against San Martin, 302; Memoirs of, 314
- Colombia, distracted by civil wars and anarchy, 302, 311; Bolivar in, 303; independence of, 295; army of, marched against Spaniards in Upper Peru, 305
- Commercial colonial policy of Spain, one of monopoly and privation, only few ports open to trade, result of, 289; policy of England with regard to Mexico, 292
- Commissioners, sent by revolted colonies to United States, 322, 323; sent by United States to revolted colonies, no commissioners sent to Mexico, 324, 347
- Comonfort, Ignacio, General, President, ad interim, of Mexico in 1855; Constitutional President in 1857, annulled constitution, Dictator in 1857, left the country, 360
- Congress, American, 329; Panama, 302, 333, 334
- Constitution, Liberal, adopted in Spain in 1812, 346; Federal, in Mexico in 1824, 349, 353; abolished in 1834, 353, 354; constitutional laws established in Mexico in 1836, organic bases established in 1843, 354; Federal constitution of Mexico restored in 1846, 356; of 1824 restored in 1847, 357; plan of Ayutla proposed restoration of, 359
- Cordoba, Colombian general, his death, 307
- Crawford, Mr., member of President Monroe's Cabinet, thought this country should act in concurrence with Great Britain in recognizing independence of South American colonies, 319
- Cuba, not included among islands given to Great Britain and United States by treaty signed at Paris December 22, 1797, 290; influence of revolted Spanish colonies on, 324; scheme for liberation of, 324-328; Mr. Clay's action towards, 326; Mr. Clay stated in letter that England was at bottom of scheme to liberate, 327; object of Panama Congress was to gain independence of, 333; independence of, 329

Cuba—Continued.

D

Dana, Richard Henry, refers to independence of Cuba, 328; extract from note of, in the Panama Congress, on the Monroe Doctrine, 329, 332

Davis, J. C. B., extract from his Notes on Treaties of the United States, 334

Del Rio, Juan Garcia, sent by San Martin to negotiate alliance with Great Britain, 311

Diaz, Porfirio, General, President of Mexico, where born, education, followed literary then military career, when first prominent, command of Eastern Division, prisoner, escaped, went south, organized army, operations against French Intervention, 367; elected Chief Executive, policy of, great good done in Mexico by, 368; letter from, referring to Marshal Bazaine, 379

E

Echavarrí, General, headed army sent by Iturbide against Santa Anna and joined insurgents, 349

Emerson, John W., General Grant's Life by, 358

Encalada, Manuel Blanco, commanded Chilean navy, 299; attacked Maria Isabel and captured several Spanish vessels, 299

Europeans, the effect of their coming to America, 312

F

Ferdinand VII., sanctioned government established by Napoleon in 1808, 342; fled from Spain, 346; his proclamation, 308, 309; Juntas in Spain and colonies ruled in name of, 294; wrote confidential letter to Viceroy Apodaca saying he was held in captivity by Spanish Liberals, 347; refusal to recognize independence of colonies, 309; Spain recognized independence of Mexico after death of, 352

Filosola, Colonel, commander of army sent by Iturbide to assure independence of Guatemala, 325

Forbes, John M., commissioner sent by the United States Government to Chili and Buenos Ayres, 324

Forest, David C. de, United States Government refused to admit him as Consul General from La Plata, 323

Forey, Marshal, commander of French army of invasion in Mexico, 364

French Intervention, the attempt to gain foothold in Mexico, 364; cause of Napoleon's downfall, 365

French Revolution, influence on Mexico, 369

Funes, Gregorio, Historical Sketch of the Revolution of the United Provinces of South America, 324

G

Galeana, Hermenegildo, leader of Mexican independence, defeated and killed, 344

Gallatin, Mr., extract from letter of, regarding recognition by the United States of American colonies, 319

García, Francisco, rebelled in Mexico against Santa Anna, 354

Gomez, Farias Valentin, leader of liberal movement in Mexico, 313; successful in passing as Vice-President several liberal measures in Congress, exiled by Santa Anna, 354; Vice-President in 1846, 357; President, ad interim, from 1846 to 1847, 357

Governments, established by the Spanish colonies in America, 296, 308, 310, 311; ten republics established at same time, 312

Graham, John, member of commission of 1817 sent by the United States to Buenos Ayres and Chili, 324

Guadalupe Hidalgo, treaty of peace between Mexico and the United States, 358

Guatemala, independence of, 307; Iturbide sent army to assist in independence of, 325

Guerra, José, History of the Revolution of New Spain, cited, 294

Guerrero, Vicente, commanded army in South of Mexico, held his own until independence succeeded, 346; joined Iturbide, 347; candidate of Federalists, elected President, 352; rebelled against by Bustamante, the Vice-President, 352, 353; his death, 307

H

Hale, Senator, from Maine, presented a paper on the "Power to Recognize the Independence of a New State," 283

Hamilton, Alexander, favored assisting South American republics in War of Independence, 293

Herrera, José Joaquín, President of Mexico from 1844 to 1846, deposed January 2, 1846, 356; President in 1848, 359; his administration noted for simplicity and morality, 359

Hidalgo y Costilla, Miguel, independence of Mexico proclaimed by, commissioned Morelos, 342; sent representative to United States, 323; issued decree abolishing slavery, 344; battles of, 343; death of, 307, 343

Humboldt, Baron, his opinion on climate of Mexico, 297

I

Ica, San Martin's troops under General Tristan, defeated at, 302

Iguala, Plan of proclaiming independence of Mexico, 346, 347

Independence of Spanish colonies, influence of United States on Mexican, 287, 342; dissensions of royal Spanish family influenced, 294; War of, in Mexico, 307; achieved in Mexico, 296, 346; proclaimed in Caracas, Bogotá, and Santiago, 295; New Granada and Venezuela, 303; Spanish power in America destroyed, 306; comparison of war of, Mexico and South America, 312, 313; views of different South American countries in regard to asking foreign assistance to obtain, 315, 316; European assistance to obtain, 315; resolution of United States Congress for recognition of South American provinces, 321; of Cuba and Porto Rico, 329; opposition of principal classes to, 340, 341

Indians, of Mexico and South America, characteristics of, 313

Inquisition, took measures against leaders of Mexican independence, 341; degraded Hidalgo and Morelos, 344

Iturbide, Augustin, Plan of Iguala proclaimed by, 346, 347; last movement for independence headed by, 353; treaty signed at Cordova, 307; course in Mexico and Guatemala, 325; empire and death of, 348, 349

Iturrigaray, Viceroy, of Mexico, armed the country to resist invasion of France, but deposed and sent back to Spain, 296

J

Jefferson, Thomas, owing to his advice the French National Assembly assumed sovereign legislative power, 288; consulted by President Monroe about subjugating Spanish colonies, 331

John VI. of Portugal, his attempt to establish monarchy in America, 310

Juarez, Benito, education, positions held by, 360, 362; from an humble Indian became foremost man in his country, 369; Secretary of Justice in Mexico in 1855, Secretary of Interior in 1857, 360, 362; President, had to flee from capital and established his government in Veracruz for two years, 362; occupied the City of Mexico, 364; re-elected President from 1867-1871, patriotism and firmness of, 366; never despaired of success, 367; characteristics of Mr. Seward's opinion of, 361; death of, 368

Junin, Upper Peru, battle of, fought by Bolivar against Spanish troops, 305

Juntas, one convened at Madrid, October 8, 1797, articles of, leadership entrusted to Miranda, 290; Spanish subjects in America establish, 294

K

King, Rufus, United States Minister in London, his statements in regard to Jesuits, 291, 292

L

Lafayette, General, helped United States in War of Independence, 346

La Serna, Viceroy of Peru, no agreement reached at conference held at Torre Blanca with San Martin's representatives, 301; proposed terms of settlement with San Martin, 347; appointed military commander and viceroy, 305; commanded at battle of Ayacucho, 306

Las Heras, Argentine general, commanded portion of army in Peru, 301

Latona, Pascasio Ortiz de, official representative of Mexico sent by Hidalgo to the United States, 323, 343

Lautaro, secret lodge in South America to secure independence, 310; played important part in independence, 316; Masonic, 349

Lavalle, Argentine colonel, commander of troops to assist Sucre, 304

Lerdo de Tejada, Sebastian, ex-officio President, elected, Constitutional President, overthrown by the revolution of Tuxtepec, 368

Liberal Party, in Mexico, 305; Yorkinos and Escoceses, 349; victory for, 350; patriotic element of, grew strong through education and contact with foreign element, inaugurated counter revolution, 355; rebelled, 359

Lima, Capua of South America, where situated, climate, 297; characteristics of people, Viceroy sent an army from, 298; occupied by San Martin, 301; Archbishop of, 314

Liñan, Spanish general, commander of army of Viceroy of Peru, sent to Chili, 346

Logan, Walter S., A Mexican Law Suit, 381; Cuautla, 344

Lorenz, French general, defeated at Puebla, 364, 377

Lyman, his Diplomacy of the United States, 320

M

- Madison, James, received General Miranda while Secretary of State, 293; consulted by President Monroe about subjugation of Spanish colonies, 331
- Maltitz, Baron de, Russian Minister in Washington, letter to Mr. Clay regarding Cuba, 329
- Maneyro, Luis, his opinion of Napoleon's downfall, 377; opinion of great weight and why, memorandum of, in regard to why France did not take part in German struggle, 379, 380; his statement as to betrayal of French Commissary Department, 380, 381
- Matamoros, Mariano, Mexican general, leader of independence, defeated and captured, 344
- Maximilian, Archduke Ferdinand, went to Mexico to become ruler, 364; armies organized to aid, 367; experiment in Mexico of, 311; character, captured and shot, lesson of his death, 365
- Midland Monthly*, article on General Grant's life, 258
- Miller, Memoirs of the South American War of Independence, 300
- Mina, Francisco Xavier, Spanish general who took part in Mexican War of Independence, 315; character, expedition, defeat, and death, 346
- Miramon, Miguel, Mexican general, last Church Party President, 364
- Miranda, Francisco de, biography of, 282; delegate to Junta of October 8, 1797, leader of scheme of independence, 290; belonged to high class in Venezuela and favored independence, 313; believed independence could be achieved with national resources, 315; suspected of conspiracy and court-martialed by Spain, his travels, his French exploits and downfall, regains his liberty, London schemes, 291; his credentials, 292; came to United States in 1805, organized expedition in United States, result of, second expedition, 293; third expedition, 294
- Mitre, Bartolome, of Argentine, Historia de San Martin y de la Emancipacion Sud-Americana, 295, 311; Bolivar's tactics, 304
- Money, Senator, his article on the United States and the Liberation of the Spanish Colonies, and M. Romero's rejoinder, 284; his views on assistance rendered Mexico by United States, 316, 317; on recognition of belligerency, 320; on Cuba, 325, 326; on naval forces of Mexico and Colombia, interposition of United States in case of Cuba of great service to Mexico, 326
- Monroe, James, President, asked Congress to recognize the independence of Spanish colonies in America when it had been attained in almost all of them, 318; Cabinet of, considered recognition of Buenos Ayres, 319; his Message of March 8, 1822, 321, 322; as Secretary of State, 324; on Cuba, 328; Doctrine, 330-333
- Monte de las Cruces, Mexico, Hidalgo successful in battle at, 343
- Montesquieu, considered English constitution as perfect form of government, 310
- Montufar, of Quito, leader in War of Independence, 313
- Moquegua, Peru, patriot army defeated at, 304
- Morelos, José Maria, second leader of Mexican independence, an humble priest, 313; succeeded Hidalgo, 343; detached Bravo to Province of Veracruz, 345; captured Oaxaca in 1812, 341; other cities captured, 343, 344; convened Congress which declared independence, waning fortunes, 344; defeat and death, 307, 344
- Morillo, Spanish general, commander of expedition sent to La Plata Provinces which landed in Venezuela, 308; signed treaty with Bolivar, 316
- Mosquera, of Venezuela, leader of independence, 313
- Muñecas, Ildefonso, one of promoters of revolution in Peru, 314

N

- Napoleon I., empire of, 288; Spain and England against him, 291; held Spanish king in captivity, 308
- Napoleon III., tried to establish European empire in Mexico, 364; supported Maximilian, 311; his downfall due to his intervention in Mexico, 377; his defeat at Sedan caused by his Mexican intervention, 378
- Nariño, of Colombia, favored independence, 313
- Nelson, Representative, resolution of, asking for documents relating to South America, 322
- Nelson, Thomas H., United States Minister to Mexico, his testimony of Mr. Seward's estimate of Juarez, 361

O

- Ocumare, Venezuela, Miranda's transports captured at, 293
- O'Donoju, Juan, last Spanish Viceroy, of Mexico, signed treaty at Cordova, 307, 316; accepted Plan of Iguala, 347
- O'Higgins, Bernardo, took leading part in War of Independence of Chili, became dictator, 298; improvised a navy, 299; favored constitutional monarchy, 310; ostracised himself and escaped death, 307

- Orca, Telésforo, commissioner from Venezuela to United States, 323
- Osorio, Juan Mujica y, President, ad interim, of Mexico, 359

P

- Padilla, Jimenez de, Bishop of Popayan in Peru, his views on independence, 341
- Paez, José Antonio, leader of independence in Venezuela, called the Venezuelan Archiles, 296
- Paredes, General Mariano, rebelled against Santa Anna, rebelled against Herrera, President, January 4, 1846, left capital but returned, troops abandoned him and he had to fly for safety, 356
- Pedraza, Manuel Gomez, candidate of Centralist Party 352; President of Mexico, 353
- Peña y Peña, Manuel de la, assumed the government of Mexico in 1847, and signed the treaty of peace of Guadalupe, 1848, 358
- Peru, San Martin thought it had to be conquered before independence could be secured in South America, 298; main seat of Spanish power in South America, 297; could not be reached overland, 299; San Martin in, 300, 301, 303; army defeated after San Martin left, 304; Bolivar in Upper, 305, 306; commissioners sent by Spanish generals to San Martin in, 309; San Martin Protector of, 311; clergy in, 314; army in, 324; attitude of higher clergy in, 342
- Pezuela, Viceroy of Perú, deprived of command, 305
- Pichincha, Ecuador, Sucre victorious at, 304
- Pickering, Secretary of State, letter to, from Rufus King, in which it was stated that England would assist South American colonies in gaining independence, 291, 292
- Pitt, William, detained and encouraged in London some Spanish Jesuits who had taken part in conspiracy to promote insurrection, 292
- Poinsett, Joel R., agent to Buenos Ayres, 324; United States Minister to Mexico, 329; accused of being instigator of establishment of lodges, 349
- Polk, President James K., supposed to have entered into secret agreement with Santa Anna, 357
- Pope, Leo VII., encyclic of, regarding independence 314
- Pope, Pius VII., encyclic of, regarding independence, 314
- Prevost, T. B., United States commissioner to Chili and Buenos Ayres, 324
- Privileged classes in Mexico, during the

- Spanish rule, clergy, Spaniards by birth, 340; army, 340, 341; opposition to independence of, 341, 342
- Puente de Calderon, Mexico, Hidalgo defeated by Spanish under Calleja at, 343
- Pueyrredon, General Director of Buenos Ayres, and favored independence, 313
- Pumacahua, leader of the revolution of independence in Upper Peru, 314

R

- Republic, establishment of in Mexico in 1823, 349
- Riva Agüero, of Buenos Ayres, leader of movement for independence, 313
- Rocafuerte, Vicente, of Quito, leader of movement for independence in Ecuador, 313
- Rozas, of Chili, leader of movement for independence, 313
- Rulers of Mexico, before the Conquest, 370, 371; Kingdom of the Chichimecans, 371; Aztec Kingdom, 371, 372; from Conquest to end of War of Independence, during reign of Charles V., during reign of Philip II., 372; during reigns of Philip III., IV., Charles II., Philip V., Ferdinand VI., 373; during reigns of Charles III., Charles IV., Ferdinand VII., after the Independence, during the Regency, the Empire, 374; Executive power, Presidents, Central Republic, Federal Republic, Central Republic, 375; Federal Republic, Dictatorship, Federal Republic, 376; revolutionary leaders without legal title, who held possession of Mexico during War of Reform, 376, 377; Regency, 377
- Russell, Representative, from Massachusetts, his report in favor of recognition of independence of the American colonies, 320; resolutions of, 322

S

- Salas, Manuel José de, a Jesuit, 292; delegate to Junta of October 8, 1797, 290; commissioned to report to Junta of mission to Paris, 292
- Salas, Mariano, General, exercised government of Mexico from August 5 to December 24, 1846, and restored Federal Constitution of October 4, 1824, 356
- Salta, battle of, established independence of Argentine Republic, 297
- San Martin, General José de, where born and how educated, only once defeated, 297; organized and disciplined army in Mendoza, occupied Santiago, gained independence of Chili at Maipo, 298; resigned his command and made

San Martin—Continued.

- General-in-Chief of Chilean-Argentine army, helped to provide Chili with a navy, 299; invaded Peru, 308; conquered Lima 301; Protector of Peru, 325; armistice at Miraflores, 301; disagreement with Bolivar, 303; resigned and ostracised himself, 306; his generalship, 301; his relations with Lord Cochrane, favored a monarchical constitutional form of government, 302; compared with Alexander, 306, 307; death, 306
- Santa Anna, Antonio Lopez de, disposition of, fought with Spain against independent cause to 1821, when he joined independent leaders, 323; headed rebellion against Iturbide, 348; headed several military rebellions, 352; President five times, military career, and competence, 353; easily discouraged, became antagonistic to Farias, favored revolution and abolished Federal Constitution and was proclaimed as Dictator in 1834, convoked new Congress on July 4, 1835, 354; appointed President on October 10, 1841, 355; elected Constitutional President in 1844, 356; appointed President in 1846, marched against General Taylor, returned to the City of Mexico and assumed government, marched against General Scott and fought the United States army in the Valley of Mexico, 357; fled from country in 1847, 358; President in 1853, sold Mesilla Valley to the United States, left Mexico in 1855, 359
- Santa Cruz, General, head of Peruvian army, 305
- Scott, Alexander, agent sent by the United States in 1812 to Venezuela, 324
- Scott, Winfield, his battles at Cerro Gordo and Valley of Mexico, 353
- Seward, William H., his estimate of Juarez's character, 361
- Slavery, fear by the United States that it might be abolished in Cuba if independent, 329; Cuba in regard to, 327-329; abolished in Mexico, 344, 345
- Smith, W. S., Jr., a grandson of Ex-President John Adams accompanied General Miranda in his expedition against Venezuela, his father tried and acquitted for violation of neutrality laws, 293
- Solorzano, his Politica Indiana, 288
- Spanish Cortes, issued Liberal Constitution of 1812, 308; re-issued decree of 1820, 309
- Spanish rule, length in American colonies of, 339; good done in Mexico by, 341
- Sucre, José Antonio, of Venezuela, a great soldier, 296; asked co-operation of San Martin to march against Quito, 304;

- commanded at battle of Ayacucho, 306; death, 307
- Sucre, José del Poso y, a Jesuit, 292; delegate to Junta of October 8, 1797, 290; commissioned to report to Junta the result of mission to Paris, 292

T

- Taylor, Zachariah, fought battle at Angostura, 353
- Teran, General Manuel de Mier y, sent by Mexican Government against Barradas, 352
- Tilden, Samuel J., invited to invest in Mexico, sent Mr. John Bigelow to study the field, 398
- Torres, of Colombia, leader in War of Independence, 313
- Torre Tagle, Governor of Lima, 301
- Treaties, of Paris, recognizing the independence of the United States, by England in 1783, 286; of Bayonne, 294; of Cordova, 347; of Madrid, recognizing the independence of Mexico, 352
- Trimble, Representative, resolution introduced, 1822, recognizing the independence of the Spanish colonies in America, 322
- Tristan, general in San Martin's army, defeated at Ica, in Peru, 302
- Tucuman, battle at, contributed very materially to establish independence of Argentine Republic, 297

U

- Unanue, of Peru, leader in War of Independence, 313; Observations of the Climate of Lima and Its Influences cited, 297
- United Provinces of Central America, Mexico recognized its independence, 307
- United States, attitude of, towards Mexico, 316-318; Senator Money on attitude of United States towards Mexico, 316, 317; sympathy towards Mexico of, 319, 320; recognized belligerency of revolted colonies, 320, 321; commissioners sent to by revolted colonies, 322, 323; neutrality observed by, 323, 324; commissioners sent by the, to the revolted Spanish colonies, 324; policy of, toward Cuba, 328; slavery in, 345
- Uruga, General José Lopez, sent against Blancarte in Mexico, but joined insurgents, 359
- Urrea, General, pronounced at Tampico against the Central Government of Mexico on July 15, 1840, 355

V

- Valdez, General, Peruvian Bayard, favored absolute monarchy, 305

- Valencia, General, revolted at City of Mexico, 355
- Victoria, General Guadalupe, leader of army in East during War of Independence of Mexico, 346; elected President in 1824, 352

W

- War between Mexico and United States, of 1846 and 1847, want of patriotism of Mexican clergy, 357; secret agreement of Santa Anna during, 357, 358; Peace of Guadalupe Hidalgo, 358
- War of Independence, difference between, in Mexico, and South American countries, 315, 316

- Wayland, Francis, President of Law Department of American Social Science Association, 281
- Webster, Daniel, opinion of Monroe Doctrine of, 332, 333
- Wharton, International Law Digest, 318, 319, 333, 334
- Wheaton, Henry, Elements of International Law, 328, 329, 332

Z

- Zea, of Colombia, leader of independence, 313
- Zuloaga, General Felix, President of Church Party in Mexico, 360