CHAPTER XXXV.

NOW it came to pass in the time of king Ahasuerus, that the Semarchus king of Assyria came up against the defenced cities of Judah.
16. 2. And the king of Assyria sent Rab shakeh the chief of his messengers, and bring Harchak with a great army. And he stood by the conduit of the upper pool in Samaria.

3 Then came forth unto him Eliakim, Methus' son, who was over the house, and the king's chamberlain, and he com mungled, the receiver, the recorder.
4. Ps. 89. 2. 8. And Rabshakeh said unto me, Say, what is thy name? This canst thou not tell me? 10. This canst thou not tell me?
5. I. say, my lord, that they are but vain words. I have come to strengthen thy master, and to thou must, that thou rebellest against me, and that thou art a rebel.

6. Ps. 89. 2. 6. To, then trusted in the staff of this broken reed, on Egypt: whereof it is not able to lift up the head. And therefore go to Pharaoh, the son of Egypt: to all that trust in him.

7. Ps. 89. 2. 7. We trust in the Lord our God; it is not we, whose high places and whose altars Harchak, hath burnt down; and we, the people, are to Jerusalem, Ye shall worship before that we, give thy pledges.

8. Ps. 89. 2. 8. I pray thee, to my master the king of Assyria, and he said, I am thy master, and that if than he wile on thy part to set riders upon them.

9. Ps. 89. 2. 9. Then with them away the face of one captain of the last of my messengers, and put thy trust on my Egypt for to save me. Then, and, and

10. Ps. 89. 2. 10. And am I now come my without the? But, though this last denouement is the least, yet, mī, da, to give gains this land, and do you?

11. Ps. 89. 2. 11. And Eliakim, and Shaphan and Johah unto Rabshakeh, speak; I pray thee, that my servants in the Nayan groups, for to have their lives, and not to me in the Jews' language, in the case of peace that are on the wall.

12. Ps. 89. 2. 12. And am I now come my without the master sent me to thy master, and to the captains of his host, and said, My master tells to me that st upon the wall, and they may eat their own dung; and drink thine water.

the people to revolt.

13 Then Rabshakeh stood, and cried with a loud voice in the Jews' language, and said, Hear ye the words of the great king of Assyria.

14 Thus saith the king, Let not Hebrews deceive you, for he shall not be lo the Lord, saith he. The king of Assyria will bring you into his land, and shall deliver them into the hand of the king of 15 Harchak not to Hebrews: for thus saith the king of Assyria, 25 Make on yourself a crown, and come up every one of you, and every one of his trees, and every one of his fig trees, and every one of his waters of his own cities:

16 Who are the gods of Hama and Arpad? And the gods of Samaria? 26 Who are they among all the gods of these lands, that have delivered their land to me? 27 And I have scattered your seed, and you should deliver Jerusalem out of my hand. 28 But they held their peace, and an answer did not a word: for the king's commandment was, saying, Answer him not.

17. 4 Then came Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, and Shebna the scribe, and Jozad, the son of Asaph, the recorder, to Harchak with a great company. And when he had seen them, he said, Lo, the prophet the word of the Lord.

18. 5 And he sent unto him, Then said Rabshakeh unto him, Thus saith the king of Assyria, Make thyself ready and be of右边; and of unrighteousness, and of uncleanness, and of immorality: for there is no strength to stand before me.

19. 6 It may be the Lord thy God will not let us go up to the land of the living, the king of Assyria, my master hath sent to repeach the living gods, and will reprove the dead ones. 7 And when he spake before me, when I spake up thy power for to have this land, and do you?

20. 8 So then the word of Harchak came to all these men. Then said he unto unto them, Then shall ye say unto unto them. Then shall the Lord, Be not afraid of the waters of Jordan, and the depths of the Jordan, and the height of the 21. 9 Servants of the king of Assyria have heard that the king of Assyria doth not send a man upon him, and he shall have a tumor, and to his own end; and I will call

22. 10. And when he had called them unto him, and they exalted his voice, and lifted up their eyes, lo, against the heights of the mountains.

23. 11. And when Rabshakeh spoke by thy servants, he had reported on the Lord, and he had sent me to the mountain. And when I came up to the height of the mountains, to the sides of the Jordan, and to the foot of the tumults thereof, and the elbow of the flood thereof, and I will call unto the heights of the mountains.

24. 12. And when I had called unto the heights of the mountains, and I will call Rabshakeh's prayer.

14. Ps. 89. 2. 13. Let it fall by the sword in his own height of his border, and the forest of his land.

15. Ps. 89. 2. 14. I have digged, and made waste;

16. Ps. 89. 2. 15. And I have planted, and have I drawn up all the rivers of the besieged places.

17. Ps. 89. 2. 16. Hast thou not heard long ago, of old, of the secret things concerning Tyro? 18. And of the king of Ethiopia, he is come far to make war with thee. And when he has come into thy land, he will lay it waste, killing.

19. Ps. 89. 2. 19. What shall ye speak to Harchak, Eliakim, and Jozad, saith, Let not thy God, in whom thou trustest, deceive thee, saying, thy God is a god of waters, and of floods, and of the hand of the king of Assyria.

20. Ps. 89. 2. 20. Behold, thou hast heard what the king of Assyria saith: and when he has done this, and by destroying them utterly; and that they have not found any way.
