APPENDIX.

APIS MELLIFICA.

Resume of the Symptoms by C. HERING, M. D., translated from Americanische Arzneipruefungen, by P. P. Wells, M.D. For remarks see REVIEW Vol. VI. p. 13.

Sensorium :

Indifference. Depression of spirits.
Anxiety, excitement, presentiment of death.
Irritable, perverse temper; nothing is right with him.
Passionate during the itching, the sufferings attending the catamenia, and other difficulties.
Restlessness of disposition, mind and body.
Bustling, frivolous, laughing, gay.
Delirium, with congestions, eruptions, heat; during sleep.
Cannot direct his thoughts to any determinate object.
Vertigo while standing, sitting, lying down, closing the eyes, with obscuration of sight, nausea, headache, and sneezing.

Dull confusion (eingenommenheit) especially over the eyes.

Head :

The head as if too full; it seems too large.
Heaviness, pressure; pressure in the head, especially when rising from sitting or lying, increased in a warm room, relieved by pressing together with the hands.
Pain in the head extending as far as the eyes, over the eyes and in the eyes.
Sharp shooting pains in the temples.
